FIRING ON NANKING.

Northerners Subject City To Heavy Fusillade.

SOUTHERNERS DEMORALISED.

Chinkiang Populace Scared By Military.

REPORTED VISIT OF CHIANG KAI-SHEK TO GERMANY.

Whether the Northern troops on the Pukow bank of the Yangtze intend to cross to Nanking or not, it appears that this city is being subjected to heavy fire by the Northerners. The Nationalists are now demoralised, though any actual attack on Nanking is not expected for the present as there is no shipping on the Pukow side for use as transport.

Admiral Tyrwhitt has left Shanghai for Hankow, from which centre there is no fresh news. The inhabitants of Chinkiang are in a panic and the city has been overrun by military.

Baron Tanaka has declared that the Japanese do not intend withdrawing their troops from Shantung at present.

Chiang Kai-shek is reported to be thinking of going to Germany.

JAPAN AND SHANTUNG.

Shanghai, Yesterday.

A Japanese officer from the s.s. "Tating Maru" vividly narrates how that when the ship was on its way down river from Hankow at one o'clock on Wednesday afternoon they observed the Northerners at Pukow maintaining heavy machine gun and rifle fire in the direction of Nanking. The Southerners were replying intermittently.

The Japanese steamer was compelled to anchor for three hours owing to the fire and was eventually escorted through the danger zone by the Japanese destroyer "Hinoki." Though fire was opened on her, no serious damage was done.

The Northerners also fired on the "Tatu Maru" on its way up-river and two Chinese steamers carrying Southerners which unknowingly anchored on the Pukow side were seriously damaged by fire from the Northerners.

The situation at Chinkiang is unsettled and the inhabitants are panicky. The city is over-run by soldiers who at present number 60,000 all of whom have been evacuated from the North Bank as it is expected that Sun Chuan-fang's troops will occupy the North Bank.

Admiral Tyrwhitt.

Despite the demoralisation of the Southerners, the crossing by the Northerners is not expected to take place in the immediate future owing to shipping being wholly carried off to the South Bank.

Admiral Tyrwhitt, on board H.M.S. "Hawkins," left for Hankow this afternoon.—Reuter.

No Japanese Withdrawal.

Shanghai, To-day.

The following message has been received from Tokyo:

Although the Press urges the Government to use the present opportunity of withdrawing Japanese troops from Shantung and the Government is rumoured to be contemplating withdrawal, Baron Tanaka, Minister for Foreign Affairs, interviewed by Reuter, asserts that he has no intention of withdrawing the troops at present, the Government being of opinion that the present situation does not warrant such action.—Reuter.

FIGHT AT SHANGHAI.

Chiang Forces Way Into French Town.

GENDARMES WOUNDED.

New Account Of Nanking Chief's Moves.

Shanghai, Aug. 15.

Seven French gendarmes were shot and severely wounded when General Chiang Kai-shek at the head of 600 picked troops fought his way through the French concession today. He suited with his followers for Ningpo without making any announcement as to his motives. The common belief is that he is in flight from the advancing Northerners. The French police attempted to prevent him from crossing the concession and a street battle resulted. The Northerners are reported at the gates of Nanking and planning to move on Shanghai.—United Press.

Chiang Interviewed.

Fearing that he might be captured by the Northern forces, that are advancing in the direction of Nanking, General Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nationalist army, fled to Shanghai last Saturday. He stayed in Shanghai until Sunday where he was heavily guarded by 600 devoted soldiers of the Nationalist army. When interviewed he gave out the following statement:

"I am the only one responsible for what happened. I consider it my duty to resign my leadership to give way to others who may be more able and influential than myself. From now on I will just be a plain member of the Kuomintang party, but will be ready to render my services when needed. I am ready to live up to this promise as long as I live."

General Chiang boarded yesterday a steamer bound for Ningpo, his native town.

The resignation of General Chiang Kai-shek as head of the Nationalist forces was received by the country with surprise. Many believe that the downfall of Nanking is now near at hand.

No alarm is felt by the Chinese community of Manilla on the retirement of General Chiang Kai-shek as head of the Nationalist forces. Prominent Chinese leaders believe that his resignation will not greatly affect the Nationalist movement.

Manila Views.

Dee C. Chuan, who is personally known to General Chiang Kai-shek, states that his resignation will make possible the union of the Hankow and the Nanking forces in their fight against General Chang Tso-lin.

"His retirement," he said, "must have been the result of a compromise between the Hankow government and the Nanking government. It must be remembered that General Chiang was greatly hated by the Hankow radicals because of his antagonism against them. And as long as he remains the head of the Nationalist forces he will not get the support of Hankow."

General Chiang Kai-shek, however, succeeded in driving the radicals from the Hankow government, and showed that he does not seek his own personal glory he resigned to give way to other aspiring generals. "A Great General!"

The "Fookien Times," an afternoon Chinese daily, however, feels alarmed over the situation. In an editorial for the Monday issue the paper said:

"The whole country should feel deeply the sudden and unexpected exit of General Chiang from the scene of the great Chinese conflict. He was a great and highly respected general, and his retirement must be attributed to the petty jealousies of his subordinate chiefs. However, we must expect for the best, and whatever may happen it is our hope that Nationalist movement will triumph."

Following was the cablegram received by the "Fookien Times" regarding General Chiang:

"Chiang Kai-shek, suddenly announced retirement because Tangsun and Fengziang leaders are dissatisfied with him Chiang reached Shanghai Saturday morning, and on the afternoon returned to Ningpo, his native town. Now all important Kuomintang officials of Nanking declared the retirement will result in downfall of government."—Philippines Herald.

To Learn Chinese.

New York City, Aug. 18.

American doughboys in China have been ordered to learn at least 800 words of Chinese if they want to be classed as fully trained members of their regiment, the army information bureau announced today.

Colonel Isaac Newell, in command of the 15th Infantry at Tientsin, issued the order for the purpose of decreasing allegations and misunderstandings.

HONOLULU FLIGHT.

Body of Miss Doran Reported Found.

A WIRELESS CLUE.

A Derelict Aeroplane and Man On A Raft.

Los Angeles, Yesterday.

An amateur wireless operator announces he intercepted a message from a ship reporting the finding at sea of a derelict aeroplane and a raft carrying a man and the body of a woman.—Reuter.

Not Confirmed.

Honolulu, Yesterday.

The report that Miss Doran had been found is not confirmed. Reuter's correspondent at Wailuku, Maui, who visited the spot which the machine was reported to have been sighted, discovered no trace of the machine or its occupants.

Rewards.

Honolulu, Yesterday.

Mr. Dole has offered a reward of $10,000 for the discoverer of the occupants of either of the missing Trans-Pacific aeroplanes, and $20,000 if they discovered the occupants of both.

San Francisco, Yesterday.

The "Examiner," which entered the "Golden Eagle" in the Dole Pacific flight, is offering $10,000 each for the rescue of the crews of the "Golden Eagle" and the "Miss Doran."

Flint, Michigan, Yesterday.

Mr. Malloski, the backer of the plane "Miss Doran," has offered $10,000 reward for the discovery of the occupants of the "Miss Doran" dead or alive. Just before Miss Doran, who is very popular, left for Honolulu, he expressed the hope that she would win the race, but added pensively, "If we don't, well life's just a game of chance anyway."

Anxiety In America.

New York, Yesterday.

The "Herald-Tribune's" cartoon of Uncle Sam in night attire in the small hours of the morning listening in to wireless and anxiously muttering "We ought to hear something of them by now" is an apt illustration of the public anxiety in the United States regarding the fate of the five missing fliers, now forty hours overdue.

Never before has the country realised so emphatically the need of small cruiser for practically every kind of small vessel available in the Central Pacific is intensively sweeping the ocean.

Miss Doran.

The papers give prominence to accounts of Mildred Doran's determination, and courage. She was only sixteen when her mother died. Mildred thereafter mothered her two small brothers and baby sister. Meanwhile she qualified at the Teachers' Training School. Then she turned to aviation, and interested wealthy Mr. William Malloski, who organised a passenger air service on the strength of her enthusiasm.

Honolulu Welcomes.

An earlier message from Honolulu stated that the authorities expect a crowd of at least 50,000 persons will attempt to reach Wheeler Field and wait for the winner of the Dole Prize.

All plans for receptions and entertainments follow the usual procedure in which Honolulu, through experience, is adept.

The Aloha Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, together with members of the local Dole Committee and prominent citizens are co-operating in arrangements for welcoming the fliers.

James Dole, president of the Hawaiian Pineapple Association and donor of the prize, will be present at the field to welcome the first arrival. The first two planes to reach the field will be guests of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel. They will be the winners of the derby, to first to receive $25,000 and second, $10,000.

All other successful fliers will be guests of James Dole at the same hotel.

Most of the discussions in the press and public gatherings revolve around the possibility of accidents and the probable number of successful flights. Interest in the flight has by no means confined to Honolulu. It extends throughout the islands owing to the virtual certainty that some of the fliers will be forced down, or pass over ports in other parts of the islands.

WOOD STEALERS.

Govt. Bill To Protect Plantations.

PROHIBITED AREAS.

Offence To Enter Forestry Without Permit.

Yesterday's "Gazette" contains the draft of a Bill which it is proposed to introduce into the Legislative Council at an early date with the object of enabling certain areas to be declared prohibited with a view to the protection of afforestation operations.

The "objects and reasons" explain that the afforestation operations of the Botanical and Forestry Department are greatly hampered by the practice of cutting and stealing the trees in the afforestation areas. Very young trees are sometimes also cut in the course of grass cutting. The areas in question are so widely spread that it is difficult to detect and catch offenders. One expedient adopted by them is to hide their cutting implements in a plantation, so that they are not found approaching the plantation or coming from it with any cutting implements. Further, if while engaged in cutting in a plantation, they see forest guards approaching, they hide their implements and, when questioned, say that they are merely passing through the plantation. The forest guards have to proceed on their patrol and the wood stealer can then recover his implements and continue his cutting.

This bill is an attempt to preserve the plantations from such depredations by making it an offence to enter any prohibited forestry area without lawful authority or excuse. It will be much easier to detect and prove presence in such an area than to prove actual cutting or stealing.

Marked Boundaries.

The areas will be declared by the Governor in Council in each case to be a prohibited area, and the boundaries will be marked or indicated by means of fire barriers or otherwise. Warning notices in English and Chinese will be placed along the boundaries at intervals not greater than 440 yards.

It is obviously necessary to make the prohibition of entry into the prohibited area an absolute one applying to all persons, because it is clearly impossible to distinguish the class of persons who would be likely to cut and steal wood. This absolute prohibition, which thus seems to be necessary in any case, has the additional advantage of tending to prevent damage by fire or by trampling which might be caused through the carelessness of shooting and picnic parties.

As the prohibition will be absolute, regulations in the Schedule to the Wild Birds Ordinance, 1922, Ordinance No. 15 of 1922, are being amended so as to prohibit the shooting or taking of game in an area prohibited under the present Ordinance, or the entry into such an area in pursuit of game or for the purpose of taking nests or eggs. The regulations in question will be further amended so as to provide for the insertion on the form of game licence of a note drawing attention to the prohibition now proposed.

The Ordinance does not apply to the New Territories (other than New Kowloon), and the only area which it is at present proposed to declare a prohibited area is a certain portion of the hillside between Tai Tam Harbour on the west and Big Wave Bay and Shek O on the east.

HELD BY GALE.

Services Interrupted By Typhoon's Approach.

TRAMS AND FERRIES STOP.

Gap Rock May Catch Full Force This Afternoon.

NAVAL OFFICERS AND RATINGS MAN C. N. CO. SHIPS.

Hong Kong at noon to-day was held in a gale of typhoon force. Trams on the lower and upper levels and the ferries had stopped, and there were prospects of the "blow" increasing during the afternoon, when the typhoon is expected to pass near to Gap Rock. Shortly before 11 a.m. the No. 7 signal was hoisted, indicating that a wind of typhoon force could be expected at any moment.

As on the last occasion when a typhoon approached the Colony, Naval officers and ratings this morning manned the "strike" ships of the China Navigation Company lying at Kowloon Bay. During the morning no untoward incidents as a result of the "blow" were reported.

NO. 7. SIGNAL HOISTED.

With a full day's warning of the probable approach of a typhoon, added to the sultriness of the atmosphere yesterday evening, no one was surprised when the No. 2 signal—(Gale expected from the North-N.W. to N.E.)—was hoisted shortly before midnight. It was thought that the typhoon might reach here by the morning and in Kowloon speculation reigned as to whether it would be possible to cross the harbour for the morning's duty.

The night passed fairly peacefully except for fairly heavy rain and a moderate blow, and there was general surprise in the morning to find that the No. 6 signal (gale expected, to increase) had been hoisted. This signal was hoisted at 7 o'clock, and shortly afterwards could not be observed. Whether the signal fell or was actually lowered seems to be in doubt, but it was observed to be up again later.

The Last Ferry.

The ferry service was unaffected up till ten o'clock and the crossing earlier on was a fairly smooth one, the wind being considerably short of typhoon force. Ferry awnings were stripped.

The wind freshened considerably later and on receipt of information from the Observatory it was eventually decided to stop the ferries, the last to cross being one from Hong Kong to Kowloon which arrived the other side about 10.30 a.m.

Residents on the lower levels in Hong Kong (other than the early birds) had in some cases a long "trek" by ricksha as the tramway service stopped at 9.15 as a precautionary measure, cars being withdrawn to the depot.

When No. 2 signal was hoisted it was indicated that in the absence of meteorological observations from Pratas, it was assumed that the typhoon, which was then powerful, might reach Hong Kong the following morning.

Later information indicated that the typhoon which was then in Long 119 E, Lat 20 N, moving W.N.W., would probably produce a gale here this afternoon.

At 10 a.m. to-day the following was issued by the Royal Observatory:

The typhoon passed within 10 miles to the South of Pratas at about 3 a.m. when the barometer fell to 28.56 and winds of force 11 were experienced. The centre of the typhoon is now about 70 miles S.E. of Hong Kong and it will probably pass near to Gap Rock this afternoon.

No. 7 Signal Hoisted.

At 10.45 a.m. No. 7 signal was hoisted indicating that wind of typhoon force might be expected (any direction). This was accompanied by three explosive bombs fired at intervals of ten seconds at the Water Police Station and repeated at the Harbour Office.

The Peak Tramway service stopped at 10.30.

Navy on "Strike" Ships.

This morning, about 10 a.m. Dockyard tugs conveyed naval officers and ratings to China Navigation ships in Kowloon Bay which owing to the strike of officers and men were not sufficiently manned for the typhoon.

It will be remembered when the last typhoon passed close to Hong Kong, the same procedure was followed.

Men Unconcerned.

Boston, Yesterday.

Sacco, Vanzetti and Madefros when removed to the death house showed no signs of physical or mental distress as they walked with the guards through the corridors.

Similar precautions have been taken to guard the public buildings of Pittsburgh.—Reuter's American Service.

Exceptions Overruled.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts overruled the exceptions by counsel for the defence to the refusal of Supreme Court Justice Sanderson to grant a writ of error and the refusal of Supreme Court Judge Thayer to grant a new trial, revoke the sentences or stay the execution. The exceptions were based chiefly on allegations of prejudice on the part of Thayer.—Reuter's American Service.

Vanzetti's Condition.

After visiting Vanzetti in his cell at Charlestown State prison attorney, Mr. Musmanno, told the Warden Hendry that Vanzetti had become insane. Counsel this morning informed the prisoners of the decision of the Supreme Court. Hendry announced that the two men will be removed to the death house this afternoon.—Reuter's American Service.

Counsel for the defence has announced that application will be made immediately to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari on behalf of the condemned men.

[A writ of a certiorari is the legal term for a writ issued by a superior to an inferior court.]

Police Precautions.

New York, Yesterday.

Following the refusal of the appeal, the Commissioner of Police has ordered the resumption of the police guard on public buildings and underground railway stations.

on SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1st

To be opened by LADY CLEMENTI, M.B.E. and under the distinguished patronage of HIS EXCELLENCY, SIR CECIL CLEMENTI, K.C.M.G.

U.S. PRESIDENT.

COOLIDGE WILL RUN IF NAMED.

Rapid City, S.D., Aug. 11. Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, administration stalwart, declared to-day after visiting the Summer White House that President Coolidge held the emphatic intention not to run for re-election in 1928.

Senator Fess doubted that Coolidge would decline, however, if the nomination was forced upon him.

The senator also declared that unless another naval armament effects an agreement for limitation of naval construction, the next congress will insist on an American navy comparable to that of Great Britain.

Sufficient funds for the first year's work on all naval craft authorized, including six cruisers asked for by Congress last winter, will be included in the estimates for next year, General Lord, head of the budget bureau, said to-day upon his arrival here to see President Coolidge.

An impersonal survey conducted by officials of the department of labour has disclosed that labour leaders are virtually unanimous in regretting President Coolidge's announcement that he did not choose to run for re-election, Secretary of Labour Davis declared to-day.

PHILIPPINES BUREAU WANTS P.3,616,652.

The appropriation requested by the Philippine Health Service for next year is much smaller than the amount allotted this year. The bureau was given P.3,803,412 for 1927 and it needs for 1928 the sum of P.3,616,652 only.

Of the requested sum, P.87,000 is to be spent in travelling expenses of the director and other officers of the service. For materials and uniforms for the Cullon Leprosy Colony, P.1,421,570 would be allotted. A new ambulance and refrigeration machine would be acquired for the San Lazaro Hospital. Both are to cost P.15,000.

For malaria control work, the bureau requests a similar amount as that allotted this year, P.100,000.

MEMORIAL DEDICATED.

To Four United States Presidents.

Keystone, S.D., Aug. 11. President Coolidge dedicated to-day the gigantic memorial to Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt which will be begun to-day by Gutzon Borglum, the noted sculptor.

Borglum will carve on Mount Rushmore, in the Black Hills at Rushmore, a gigantic memorial, the largest of its kind in the world, typifying the growth of the United States through four Presidents.

PACIFIC RADIO.

COMMERCIAL CABLE COMPANY PLANS TO COMPETE.

New York, Aug. 10. The office of Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Commercial Cable Company, declines to confirm reports that the company will inaugurate a new trans-Pacific radio circuit but it is learned in reliable quarters that $5,000,000 is available for this undertaking.

It was stated that any plans the Commercial Cable Company has of this nature, were connected in no way with the recent announcement by the Western Union Cable Company that a new cable would be laid across the Pacific.

The Commercial's project, however, coming closely on the heels of the Western Union's venture, is generally interpreted as a result of the latter.

The new radio system will use the "beam" system which makes possible a large degree of control over the direction of a broadcast. President Mackay's plan is said to contemplate completing the radio system before the Western Union can finish the laying of its cable.

The radio would furnish service to China, the Philippines, Honolulu and San Francisco, over the same general circuit now served by the Radio Corporation of America—United Press.

A SURE WAY TO STOP INDIGESTION.

Indigestion is such a common ailment that many people use the first thing that's handy to stop it. They frequently use ordinary bi-carbonate of soda, never realising that although this frequently stops the pain, it is doing incalculable harm to the stomach lining, and may even cause stomach ulcers.

The best, safest, and surest remedy for digestive troubles is a little 'Bisurated' Magnesia in a quarter of a tumbler of water after meals, which not only corrects the trouble at its source, but soothes, heals and protects the stomach lining.

The moment you take 'Bisurated' Magnesia it neutralizes the excess acidity, prevents fermentation, and that's the end of indigestion. Your chemist sells 'Bisurated' Magnesia in both powder and tablets; the one and only 'Bisurated' Magnesia that doctors recommend and hospitals use, because it is as safe as it is effective.

LAVOL

This sufferer literally covered with skin disease—15 years of suffering—then his whole body cleared off in 48 days—no more skin disease, no pain, no itching, no irritation. This story seems incredible as do hundreds of other cases relieved by the powerful liquid for the treatment of skin diseases.

It is not a chemical, it is a natural product.

SHIP MYSTERY.

SEVEN EUROPEANS DROWNED.

The British cargo boat "Shahzade" (2,246 tons, owned by the Asiatic Steam Navigation Co.) sank 40 miles off the Sandheads (mouth of the Hooghly). Twenty-one members of the crew—7 Europeans and 14 Indians—were drowned. Fifty-one survivors arrived at Calcutta aboard the British steamer "Clintonia," of the Stag Line.

Survivors state that when the "Shahzade" was 50 miles off the Sandheads she began to sink. All the crew were immediately called on deck, but the ship sank so rapidly that there was no time to launch the life boats.

The strong vortex created by the sinking vessel snapped the chains fastening the lifeboats and five boats came to the surface. Some of the crew swam to them and cruised around for an hour picking up others, and then rowed to the Sandheads lightship.

Sides Ripped Out?

The Marine Court has opened its enquiry into the sinking of the steamer "Shahzade." Mr. H. R. Panckridge, Standing Counsel, Bengal, at the outset made a statement, in the course of which he said that on the night previous to the disaster the Master of the vessel came on the bridge thrice in order to ascertain the ship's position. The Chief Officer was on watch from four o'clock in the morning. The last time that the Captain came on the bridge was at five minutes past three o'clock. On receiving the information he went to the bridge and found that the vessel had a heavy list to starboard. Under the Master's direction, the Chief Officer went to the engine-room. The Second Engineer, who was on watch, appeared to be dazed. The list became worse and worse and the ship capsized and sank bows foremost.

The cause of the disaster was obscure. Government's technical advisers offered no theory as to the cause.

"No Theory To Offer." Mr. Panckridge added: "We have no theory to offer. The Chief Officer was on watch from four o'clock in the morning, and it is for the Court to consider whether he sent for the Captain after matters had gone too far, and the Court will have to consider whether there were any grounds to conclude that he had been remiss in his duties, although the disaster might not have anything to do with his remissness, if any."

Captain A. J. Cavello, Master of the "Shahzade," mainly corroborated Mr. Panckridge's statement regarding the sinking of the vessel. He said that before the pilot left the vessel, the "Shahzade" had a slight list to starboard, which had not increased till 1.38 o'clock in the morning.

Later, while asleep, he thought that he heard a tremor. He went straight to the bridge and noticed that water was pouring on board on the starboard side.

Answering the Court, witness said: "I have only one theory: it is that the tremor that awoke me was caused by the vessel striking something which ripped her sides out. The fact that she went down so suddenly is in favour of the theory."

GLADSTONE DOCK.

DETAILS OF A GREAT SCHEME.

On July 19, His Majesty the King, accompanied by Her Majesty the Queen, visited Liverpool to open the Gladstone Docks of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board, and in so doing not only set a seal on the completion of a great engineering and commercial enterprise, but showed once again his recognition of the importance of proper provision being made to maintain the mercantile trade of the country. We say once again because it is almost exactly fourteen years since their Majesties visited Liverpool to open the graving dock, which forms an essential part of the Gladstone Docks scheme.

The Gladstone Docks, as now completed, has involved the expenditure of about £3,000,000, £3,000,000 of which was authorised by the Act of 1906 and the remainder by later legislation.

The scheme embraces works extending northward on the Seaford shore from the Mersey Dock for approximately 2,600 ft. and seawards into the River Mersey for 2,200 ft. The works include an entrance lock from the river, with a length of 1,070 ft. and a width of 130 ft. The sills of this lock are 30 ft. below Old Dock sill, or 20 ft. below bay datum. This arrangement provides 21 ft. 4 in. on the sills at low water on ordinary spring tides, and 28 ft. 7 in. on neap tides. At half-tide level there is 35 ft. of water over the sills, at high water ordinary neap tides 41 ft. 7 in., and at high water ordinary spring tides 45 ft. 10 in. These conditions will allow the largest ship now in existence to enter or leave the dock on every single tide in the year, while more ordinary ships of, say, 28 ft. draught, will be able to go into and out of the dock at any time of the day, except for a few hours on each side of low water at spring tides.

Inside this lock there is a half-tide dock, known as the Gladstone Dock, with an area of 22 acres, and opening out of this are two branch docks, Nos. 1 and 2, each 400 ft. wide, and 1,420 ft. and 1,255 ft. long respectively. The quays of these branch docks are furnished with three-storey sheds, and are fully equipped with electric cranes, while very extensive railway connections and buildings are provided. The grounds covered by the sheds amounts to 18½ acres, and the total gross floor area available for storage is 55 acres. This area includes that of the flat roofs, which are designed to take light loads.

Dividing Gladstone Branch Dock No. 1 from the Hornby Dock is a space with an average width of about 800 ft. The quays of this branch dock are connected by a new dock and the older system is made by the Gladstone-Hornby lock, which is 645 ft. long and 90 ft. wide. The total water area of the system is 55½ acres and there is an aggregate quay length of 2,750 miles. Provision is made in the branch dock for berthing four ships of 1,270 ft., 1,300 ft., 1,325 ft. and 1,510 ft. long respectively, without projecting into the canting area. In addition the graving dock can take ships up to 1,050 ft. long and 120 ft. beam, the depth over the sill being 46 ft. at high water of ordinary spring tides, or 35 ft. at the lowest neap tides. "Engineering."

P. I. SHIPPING BILL.

WOULD CLIP OFFICIAL WINGS.

Another important shipping measure is in the course of drafting, the author being Representative Juan Alcasaren, of Cebu, who will submit it during one of these days, at a session of the house. The proposed measure would clip the powers of ship inspectors in the employ of the bureau of customs.

At the present time," announced Representative Alcasaren, "the inspection of vessels are placed in an absolute manner in the hands of 'experts' of the bureau of customs, known as 'hulls and boilers inspectors.' The ship owners are at the mercy of these officials. They have no means of contradicting these inspectors. They may appeal to the insular customs collector, or his deputies. But such officials, usually, are not experts in the matter, so they invariably support the view of their superiors, the inspectors.

"This state of affairs, I believe, has produced abuses, and has, perhaps, given rise to combinations between inspectors and shipowners, which are not conducive to the attainment of satisfactory coastwise shipping service.

"My measure provides a 'check and balance' by virtue of which shipowners may contradict the reports of the customs hulls and boilers inspectors, by the appointment of their own hulls and boilers inspectors who must undertake the inspection of vessels in conjunction with the customs inspectors."

STEAMERS' ROUGH PASSAGE.

"Worst Crossing For Many Years."

Calcutta, July 30. The "Aronda," which left Rangoon for Calcutta on Tuesday morning, arrived in port late last evening, 30 hours behind the scheduled time, and missed the English mail. The vessel encountered mountainous seas, torrential rain and hurricane squalls during the journey, which has been described by passengers as the worst crossing they have experienced for many years. Fortunately, however, no damage or injury was reported. The "Chindwara," which was due to arrive on Thursday afternoon, is still held up at the mouth of the river.

FIRE ON STEAMER.

VALUABLE JUTE
CARGO.

Sydney, July 21:
A fire has occurred on the British India steamer "Gerada," which is bound from Calcutta to Australian ports, with a valuable cargo of jute goods.

The Sydney Marine Underwriters' Association received a cable message to-day stating that the fire had occurred among the cargo in the
No. 4 hold, and that the vessel was expected to arrive at Singapore on Saturday.

The "Gerada" left Calcutta on July 16 for Fremantle, Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney. Her cargo for Sydney includes 6,700 bales of woolpacks, and it is not known whether this portion of the vessel's cargo has been damaged.

"STAR OF INDIA."

PURCHASED BY JAMSAHEB OF NAWANAGAR.

The steam yacht "Valfreya," formerly the home of the American millionaire recluse, Mr. Bayard Brown, who lived on board while the ship was anchored off Brightlingsea, has been renamed the "Star of India," and is undergoing extensive alterations for her new owner, the Jamsaheb of Nawanagar.

She will shortly proceed to the Maharaja's estate on the Gulf of Cutch.

One of her first duties on arrival in India will be to carry the Viceroy across the Gulf on his official visit to Nawanagar State.

THE "ANICURA."

Order For Sale.

Melbourne, July 22.
The position of the ship
"Anicura," at present, berthed in the River Yarra, again came before Mr. Justice Lowe in the Practice Court yesterday. On the hearing of an application that the Court should, in its Admiralty jurisdiction, authorise the sale of the ship, affidavits disclosed that it was feared that the owners intended to abandon the vessel for sale in Melbourne.

When the matter was before Mr.
Justice Lowe on Monday he declined to authorise the sale. At that time, it was shown that the "Anicura" was a wooden motor-sailing vessel, and was registered in the Republic of Panama. The owners of the ship were an unincorporated body of persons, in San Francisco, carrying on business under the style of the Pacific Navigation Line. The vessel had come to Melbourne with a cargo of timber. Cable messages sent to the managing owner had resulted in replies which led the crew to believe it was the intention of the owners to abandon the vessel for sale here.

Mr. Justice Lowe said that it seemed desirable that the ship should be sold, and he made an order accordingly.

CAPTAIN R. DOLLAR.

TAKES VIEW OF SHIPPING FUTURE.

The Shipping Board must decide whether it is going to stay in or get out of the shipping business.
We can't go on this way, and I am sure the Board knows it and will soon make known its plans in a way that will make all American shipping men breathe easier.
Such were Captain Robert Dollar's characteristically plain spoken words on his visit to New York where he has been consulting with shipping men following his attendance at the Fourteenth National Foreign Trade Convention at Detroit.

"We all value the services of the Shipping Board highly," Captain Dollar admitted, "and I doubt but that most of us would do the same in their place. But the time for a new arrangement of things is at hand. American privately owned and operated shipping lines must expand if they are to live; they must take the whole world for their field of operation. They feel the risk of an actual rivalry with the Shipping Board fleet, and they apprehend that the fleet, if enlarged, would make the hazard still greater."

"We knew what the differentials are between us and foreign ships, because many of us, like myself, have operated foreign ships. And we know the margin is going to take all our effort to overcome.
But if American shippers will give us an even break and if the Government will make it plain that it is going to enter upon a policy where, stage by stage, it will progressively withdraw and cease to compete with us, we can give the American people the finest merchant marine in the world."

Captain Dollar was very hopeful of the future for pulverized coal as the ship's fuel that may save shipping men in case of an oil shortage.

"I welcome the activity of the Government," he said, "in experimenting with the production and space costs of this new fuel. We have to look far in the future on the sea, and pulverized coal is going to be an important clue to the fuel question."

"Business is fine in the west and full cargoes from the Pacific coast eastbound are the order of the day," he admitted. "But, at large, Americans may now be assured that the worst of our troubles are over in China. Even during the revolution we have been gaining trade steadily and we are gaining it now. The only cessation came when the Bolsheviks got control of the South China cities. Now they have been thrown out of every city but Hankow and we are only up against the same civil war question we have been up against for the last twelve years. I think the future of China is as great as ever, and American opportunity was never better."

Captain Dollar, one of the founders of the National Foreign Trade Council, attended and spoke at its fourteenth convention in Detroit, and told 1,425 delegates that the indispensable condition of growth for the American merchant marine was for the American business community to get behind it.

While in New York Captain Dollar presided at the annual luncheon given in his honor at India House at which Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine; Sir Thomas Lipton; Mr.
Willis H. Booth, vice-president,
Guaranty Trust Company, Mr. Ira
A. Campbell, general counsel of the American Steamship Owners' Association, and many other men president in the shipping world were present.

Captain Robert Dollar, the "Grand Old Man" of American shipping, is still at 83 as alert and active as a man half his age. In an interview with "The Nautical Gazette" last October, Captain Dollar "sensed" a general increase in shipping property, not very great but world wide and appreciable.
Since then he has made another of his periodical trips around the world and is gratified to report his expectations justified.

With the price of fuel oil fluctuating but tending toward higher prices, Captain Dollar inclines more than ever to favour steam turbines and reciprocating engines rather than Diesel engines, although he thinks his weather eye lifted in this direction and not ignoring the developments in the newer methods of propulsion. The Shipping Board's experiments both with pulverized coal and in the Dieselization of vessels he considered would materially help the private operator in his choice of motive for any new ship constructions.

Captain Dollar who has been visiting Boston and New York is shortly leaving again for the Pacific Coast and will no doubt embark again on circumnavigating "the globe. Constant personal supervision of all branches of the line's activities is the secret of his success in maintaining the good will of shippers throughout the world.
For the head of a great line, and the only passenger line carrying the American flag round the world, to be on personal terms of friendship and close contact with business men in all parts of the world is a remarkable achievement; but it is just this that has built up the Dollar
Line's success.

Hong Kong, Saturday, August 20, 1927.

A SATURDAY CAUSERIE.

There seems to be a glamour about a murder trial which is somewhat akin to its reaction on certain temperaments to that provided in the more sensational kind of cinema films. This is none the less true of murder trials in England as it is of trials of prisoners on capital charges in Hong Kong, whilst in America the Press and public combine more than anywhere else to make them public spectacles whereon all who desire may gaze and gratify to satiety their craving for excitement. The Castle Peak murder trial which concluded at the Sessions this week offered in regard to that aspect of it which concerned the attitude of certain of the spectators a striking commentary on the perverted nature of those who glory in the misfortunes of a fellow human being. It is possible to attend a murder trial out of curiosity's sake as to the conduct of such cases and yet to feel compassion for one who is standing upon trial for his life or death. It is certainly expected of one in any event to conduct oneself in keeping with the dignity of the Court.

The spectators in the Castle Peak trial who approached the dock ostensibly to witness a practical demonstration by counsel but if their behaviour is any criterion, the more clearly to show the prisoner the delight with which they regarded his discomfiture, fully deserved the severe rebuke administered by His Lordship. It is a pity that this type of spectator cannot be prevented from entering a court of justice at all. The public has, of course, the right to witness such or any other trials unless interests of state would be prejudiced by public disclosures, but the right is forfeited by conduct such as that of which the parties in question were guilty. The strain imposed on a prisoner during successive hearings of the case is severe enough to test the most hardened nature without adding to his distress the knowledge patent in the faces around him that others are gloating in his misery. It is cases such as these which lend force to the arguments of those who are pressing for a change in the system by which a man who has yet to be found guilty or not guilty is forced to sit or stand in a crowded court, behind bars, the cynosure of all eyes. Such a practice imposes a trial of endurance which in the case of an innocent man would hardly tend to induce a frame of mind in which he is likely to do himself justice when the time comes for him to give his evidence.

The present trouble on the frontiers of India is the outcome of bad feeling between the Mohamedan and Hindu communities which was brought to a head by the prosecution of the editor of an Indian journal for an alleged scurrilous satire on the prophet Mahomet. It is reassuring to read the statement which was made in the Legislative Assembly at Simla yesterday indicating that a serious crisis had been averted. Although these communal outbreaks are serious obstacles to permanent peace in India and provide the most striking example of the discord which would follow any withdrawal of British protection, perhaps the most serious problem with which India is faced at the present day is the Bolshevik menace on the North-West frontier, particularly now that Communist activities in China seem doomed to failure. To anyone who has studied the history of Anglo-Russian relations from the early days of the 19th century it is plain that the one spot where Russia can challenge the British Empire and make her challenge effective is on the North-West frontier of India. Whether the Government is Tsarist Imperialism or Imperialist Communism the clash is perceived to be indicated there.

For the last seven years the Russians have been pouring arms and ammunition into Afghanistan. Taken in conjunction with the declared policy of the Soviet rulers and with their action in China, the reason for this is obvious. Russia does not go to war herself until circumstances make it too easy. She would dearly love to see Afghanistan pull the chestnuts out of the fire for herself. And she pays Afghanistan an annual subsidy of £100,000. The only difficulty that she finds, happily, is the unswerving devotion of the King of Afghanistan to his country's interests, which he knows would be seriously jeopardised by the disturbance of dearly won peace. He also knows that India and, behind her, Great Britain, is a friend of his Government and does not want a yard of his territory. To see a strong, independent Afghanistan is India's earnest desire, but the danger threatened in the infiltration of Russian subjects into Northern Afghanistan and the Soviet propaganda in those districts cannot be ignored. As more and more arms, munitions and aeroplanes, with Russian personnel, are poured into Afghanistan, Russian influence may so predominate that even the King himself may find it extremely difficult to withstand its baleful effects.

The health bulletin for Eastern ports for last week, issued by the Principal Civil Medical Officer, gives the following cases, the numbers in parenthesis denoting deaths:

Plague: Colombo 9, Bassel (5) Bombay (8). Cholera: Basra 125 (108), Madras (72), Assam Province 27 (22), Mohammed (Persia) 16 (12), Calcutta (18), Bombay (11), Manila 8 (7), Canton 7 (4), Amoy 5, Shanghai (2), Macao (2), Tournai 2 (2), Haiphong 1 (1), Bangkok 1, Colombo (1), Negapatam (2). Small-pox: Bandjermasin 25, Basra 1 (1), Nagasaki 1 (1), Hong Kong 1 (1), Manado (Celebes) 1, Sourabaya 1, Singapore 1 (1), Colombo 6 (2), Madras 4, Calcutta 6 (5), Bombay 5 (3).

"CHEER O" CONCERT.

LADY CLEMENTI VISITS SERVICES SHOW.

An enjoyable concert was held at the "Cheer O" Y.M.C.A. yesterday evening and was well attended by Servicemen. Mrs. C. P. F. James was responsible for the arrangements but was unfortunately unable to participate owing to indisposition. Luckily Mrs. G. W. R. Griggs and Miss Judah were able to attend and filled her place as accompanists. Lady Clementi was an interested member of the audience throughout most of the concert. Whilst the programme was in progress Mrs. Costen paid a visit to the "Cheer O" and was accorded a hearty welcome, the servicemen singing "For she's a jolly good fellow" and giving three cheers and a "tiger." Mrs. A. T. Hamilton was in charge of the canteen.

OUR CABARET.

"HERE AND THERE" AT THE STAR.

There was a poor attendance, due no doubt to the unsettled weather, at the Star Theatre last night when Our Cabaret presented "Here and There." The show was up to their usual standard, Mr. Mason having great success in his comic turns. The Our Cabaret will make their last appearance at the Star to-night and will give a special programme.

SMALLER NAVIES.

OPTIMISM OF JAPANESE DELEGATE.

London, Aug. 11. Admiral Saito, chief of the Japanese delegation to the recent Geneva Naval Conference, expressed himself today as being optimistic as to an ultimate disarmament agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, and believes that another conference will be convened before 1931.—Associated Press.

HARBIN DALBANK.

TWO CHINESE CONTROLLERS INSTALLED.

Harbin, Aug. 7.

The Chinese authorities have taken the first step towards getting their share of the monies collected daily by the railway by placing two Chinese controllers in the Dalbank. These two gentlemen are now watching all payments made and will not allow any money to go out of the country, excepting of course for trade purposes. Some of the depositors fearing that more severe measures may be taken, have removed their deposits to foreign banks. The local office invited the C.E.R. Commercial Department to take over the liquidation of accounts at Shanghai but this the latter refused to do. It is not the business of a railway office to undertake the liquidation of a private bank.

Like a Battlefield.

A gentleman who has just arrived in Harbin likens the town to a battlefield as the streets in all directions are torn up to lay the tramway lines and as the work is now in the main streets, people have to drive by circuitous routes to get to their destination. The new bridge across the railway line is causing much trouble as it has been constructed at an angle which is most inconvenient for motor traffic, the curve being far too sharp.

Mulla Coal Mines.

These coal mines are in the forefront again as all the railway chiefs paid a visit there last week and afterwards there was a great banquet to discuss the question of a sale of coal to the railway and the receipt of a large sum of money in advance. The coal is certainly the best in the whole district but there seems to be great difficulty in getting it out fast enough for the demand. It is rumoured that the company want a sum of one million gold roubles to help to develop the mines. The only place where this sum can be got is from the Chinese Eastern Railway. Nothing like a banquet to get money from the railway management, seems to be the idea.

Something Like a Banquet.

Yesterday the governor of Taitaihar Province, General Wu, gave a great banquet at the Hotel Modern, over 180 guests being invited. The entertainment commenced at 1 a.m. with a performance by Chinese artists on the hotel cinema stage, fruit and tea served at the same time. About 3 p.m. the whole of the halls of this great hotel were closed to the public and preparations commenced for the evening banquet which was to begin at 7 p.m. In two of the halls large tables were spread with all kinds of Russian hors d'oeuvres, while the dining table was placed in the cinema house, formed in the shape of a double horseshoe. During the banquet Russian dancers and singers added to the enjoyment. From the appearance of the Modern yesterday one would never suppose that it was a European hotel as there were only Chinese to be seen.

Opium Dens.

A splendid comic opera might be written on the position of opium dens on the Sungari river at present. In Harbin which is in the Kirin Province every opium den has been closed and every person who is caught with opium on his person is severely fined and the drug taken from him. But the other side of the river, opposite Harbin, which is in Heilonghuang Province, allows opium to be smoked and dealt in, thus all that Harbin residents now have to do is to cross the river in a small boat and smoke opium to their heart's content if they so desire. The curious thing is that both these Provinces are part of the Three Eastern Provinces and are therefore under one chief government, that of Mukden. Why then, should one side of the Sungari smoke opium and the other be severely punished for doing so. It certainly is a comical situation and it would be interesting to hear what the Peking government have to say on the matter.

AIR RAIDS.

EIGHT YEARS TO COMPLETE DEFENSIVE SYSTEM.

London, July 29.

Of the nine daylight air raids on London launched yesterday two were abandoned owing to bad weather, two reached the capital, four were intercepted and the other was drawn.

The senior Royal Air Force officer announces that the idea of the exercises was to test the defensive system, which, however, is at present only at quarter strength and will take eight years to complete.—"Times of Ceylon."

WILL RELIEVE MOTHER'S FEARS.

A panic of fear seizes mother when sudden and severe cramps, agonising intestinal pains and weakening diarrhoea prostrate some one of the family. Keep Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the home and such emergencies need cause neither fear nor alarm. It cures pain almost instantly. Sold everywhere.

P'RAPS—P'RAPS NOT!

The typhoon did not succeed in taking our breath away.

Fond Uncle—So, my dear little nephew, you haven't forgotten your old uncle on his birthday. You have brought me this nice smoking cap for a present. Thanks, little nephew, here is a sixpence for you.

Neville—Boo-oo-oooh. It cost me half-a-crown!

Doctor—You are looking far better this morning than I expected.

Patient—I expect that is because I have followed the directions on the medicine bottle.

"What are they?"

"Keep the bottle tightly corked."

"Did you behave in Church?" asked an interested relative when Tommy returned from the service.

"Course I did," replied the boy. "I heard the lady at the back of us say she never saw a child behave so."

"So this baby is a girl?" beamed the rector, as he walked round the baby show.

The proud father assented.

"And this other one—is it of the contrary sex?" His wife's eye was on him, but with no thought of the wrath to come he replied blithely, "Yes, she's a girl, too."

Complaining customer at coffee stall—I haven't come to any ham in this sandwich yet.

Proprietor—Try another bite.

Customer (after huge mouthful)—I haven't come to any ham yet.

Proprietor—Garn! You must have gone right past it.

The lady lion-tamer was a wonderful person. She beckoned to the fiercest lion, and he meekly came to her and took a piece of sugar out of her mouth. "Anyone could do that," said a man derisively from the audience.

"Do you date to say you could?" retorted the lady indignantly.

"Certainly—just as well as the lion."

Waiter—What'll you have, sir?

Diner—I should like some ham and eggs and some kind words.

Waiter (returning with the order)—There you are, sir.

Diner—Here are the ham and eggs, but you've forgotten something.

Waiter—What's that?

Diner—The kind words.

Waiter (bending low and whispered)—Don't eat the eggs!

A man and his wife had enjoyed their previous holiday on a farm so well that they wished to repeat it.

The only thing that made them doubtful was that they had been somewhat annoyed by the close proximity of the pigsty to the house.

Finally the man wrote to the farmer and explained the objectionable feature.

He received the following reply:—

"We haven't had any pigs on the place since you were here last summer. Be sure to come."

You can't imagine what I've suffered from dyspepsia in the last ten years," she said.

"Is that possible," exclaimed her friend. "You look so healthy, I didn't suppose you—"

"Oh, it isn't I, it's my husband who has it," she hastened to explain.

The teacher, wishing to arouse the interest of her Sunday school class, asked them to write the names of their favourite hymns. All the pupils bent their heads over pencil and paper for a few minutes, and then handed in their slips—all except one.

"Come Mary," said the teacher, "bring me your paper." Mary, with downcast eyes and flaming cheeks, handed the teacher a slip of paper bearing the words "Willie Smith."

A motorist who was approaching a village saw, to his surprise, an elderly man running down the road at a remarkable speed.

"What are you running for?" he asked.

"There's a wild-beast show down there, and a lion's broken loose," was the breathless reply.

"Which way did he go?"

"Well, you don't suppose I'm chasing him, do you?"

INDIAN NEWS.

LEAVE GRANTED TO SIR MONTAGUE BUTLER.

London, Aug. 2. The Secretary of State and the India Council have sanctioned the granting to Sir Montagu Butler of four months' leave of absence, for urgent private reasons, from August 10.

His Majesty the King has approved of the appointment of Mr. John Thomas Marten to act as Governor of the Central Provinces and Berar during Sir Montagu Butler's absence.

Mr. V. S. S. Sastri's Term.

Maritzburg, Aug. 2. Mr. V. S. S. Sastri, interviewed, said that he was not in a position to decide the headquarters in the Union for the Agent-General of India, as he would probably not be in the Union longer than a year, whereas his successor's term of office would be five years.

Alleged Libel.

Rangoon, Aug. 2. Colonel H. Gidney, M.L.A., who is being sued by Mr. C. H. Campagnac, M.L.C., on behalf of the Anglo-Indian and Domiciled European Federation, Burma, for the recovery of Rs. 3,000 and damages for alleged libel, has been directed by Mr. Justice Oller to file a written statement within a fortnight.

The suit is in connection with a letter published in the "Rangoon Times."

An application made by the defendant asking the Court to direct plaintiffs to furnish certain particulars as to the alleged libel was dismissed.

Eastern Telegraph Co.'s Project.

Bombay, Aug. 5. A part of the scheme of the Eastern Telegraph Company to institute a generator system, making possible the transmission of messages from London to Bombay without being handled en route, and thus increasing the quickness of the service, their aerial line which runs across the desert from Alexandria to Suez, and over which the generator system cannot be efficiently worked, will be substituted by an underground cable.

Cables over 200 miles in length will be laid between Port Said, Ismailia and Suez.

The contract has been placed with the head office in London of W. T. Henley's Telegraph Works Company.

Mr. Gandhi.

Bombay, July 30. Mr. Gandhi has decided to extend his tour to Ceylon, which he will probably visit some time in October next.

Ceylon's New Governor.

Cape Town, July 29. The retiring Governor of Northern Rhodesia and Governor Designate of Ceylon, Sir Herbert Stanley, accompanied by Lady Stanley, sailed from Beira on board the "Mantola" on July 28.

His Excellency was given a most enthusiastic farewell at Livingstone, prior to leaving for Beira, as a tribute to his Governorship of Northern Rhodesia. Sir Herbert issued a message to his friends throughout South Africa thanking them for their kindness to him during the past 17 years.

Status of Indian States.

Bombay, July 29. Colonel Haskar and Mr. L. F. Rushbrook-Williams, who have arrived here, interviewed by Reuter, declared that they were well satisfied with their general reception in England, and believed that they had dissipated many misapprehensions regarding the fundamental relationship between British India and the Indian States.

They hoped that at no distant date an era of mutual confidence would dawn, which would expel any fancied clash between the two parts of India, and render superfluous any preparations for joining issue between those who should be natural allies in the task of upholding the honour and advancing the progress of India as a whole.

Counsel's written opinion would be submitted to the Maharaja of Patiala as Chancellor of the Chamber of Princes, after which it would be considered by the Chamber's Standing Committee.

Working of Reforms.

London, July 29. Lieut. Commander J. M. Kenworthy entertained at luncheon at the House of Commons a number of members of all parties, including Lord Olivier, Earl Winterton and Mr. G. Lansbury, at which the Indian Reforms were discussed.

The Maharaja Jamsahib of Nawanagar declared that the Indian Rulers were in no way out of sympathy with Indian aspirations or further constitutional reform. Sir Chimanlal Setalvad, described the working of the Reforms from the beginning, and pointed out the great improvement of conditions since their initiation in 1921. He urged that the com-

JAPAN'S POLICY.

NO CHANGE IN MANCHURIAN PLAN.

Tokyo, July 24. "Japan's motto is the economic development of Manchuria and Mongolia," said Premier Tanaka upon his return to Tokyo from Nagano on Friday afternoon. "Such was the result of the recent China Conference, which did not change our previously announced policy. Politically considered, however, it will be necessary for the Imperial Government to protect and safeguard Japan's special rights and interests on the Continent, which have been acquired legitimately."

The Premier cautiously avoided the topic of the South Manchuria Railway Company, on which public opinion is still sharply divided on account of Mr. Jotaro Yamamoto's appointment to its presidency. "As a matter of business," he conceded, "success largely will depend upon the men who handle the various kinds of business in China. I admit that the economic development of Manchuria and Mongolia will depend entirely upon the management of the South Manchuria Railway Company. For this purpose the appointment of its president requires most careful consideration. However, this is not the only factor in the economic development of that portion of China. We are investigating some measures to unify the various organizations in Japan's sphere of influence."

Dinner Party.

Chinese affairs in general, and Manchurian and Mongolian in particular, constituted the principal topic of discussion at the dinner party given by the Premier at the Foreign Minister's official residence in Kusunokisaki on Friday night in honour of Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa. Governor-General Count Hideo Kodama, of the Kwantung Leased Territory, President Yamamoto and Vice-President Matsuo of the S.M.R.

The Premier, in accordance with the agreement reached by the recent China Policy Conference, outlined the following guiding policies after an exchange of views on the subjects:

1. Japan's China policy has hitherto been governed by her preference to deal with the Central Chinese Government, but in view of the vanishing of such hopes under the existing condition of China greater importance will in future be attached to local Chinese Governments as well, than in the past years.

2. Greater stress will be laid on the importance of maintaining Japan's "special position" in Manchuria and Mongolia.

3. Greater harmony and co-operation will be introduced in the quadruple administration of Manchuria affairs, namely, military, civil, S.M.R., and the foreign office authorities.

4. Greater efforts than before will be made for the country's economic expansion in South China as well in North China and Manchuria.

Manchurian Policies. In conformity with the above guiding principles indicated, the conference came to an agreement on the following concrete policies:

1. An effort will be made in a different direction from the line of policies so far followed for the achievement of commercial lease rights.

2. Administrative affairs in Manchuria and Mongolia will be transferred as far as possible to the Kwantung Administration Office so as to ensure unification of the administration.

3. Resolute exception will be taken to the Tatung railway and the like lines planned to run parallel with the South Manchuria Railway, so as to ensure every positive protection for the Japanese rights and interests in Manchuria and Mongolia.

4. Manchuria-Korea traffic facilities will be improved by extending the Kirin-Holnyong railway.

5. Efforts will be made for promotion of Russo-Japanese understanding in Manchuria and Mongolia so as to avoid useless competition between the Chinese Eastern Railway and the South Manchuria Railway in the Three Eastern.

6. Monetary organs will be improved in the Provinces in order to facilitate economic expansion of the country in the regions.—"Japan Times."

tion of the Statutory Commission should be such as would inspire confidence in the Indian public mind, since complete self-government postulated the ability of the nation to defend itself. Sir Chimanlal pressed the urgent necessity of implementing the unanimous recommendations of Indian Sandhurst Committee.

Mysore's Contribution.

Mysore, July 30. Speaking at a State Banquet on the eve of the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Maharajah's accession to power, the Viceroy decided to remit in perpetuity ten and a half lakhs of the thirty-five paid annually by the State to the Central Government.

INDIAN FLOODS.

RELIEF WORK IN BARODA.

Bombay, Aug. 2.

The Associated Press learns from Baroda that, although the loss of life was not so heavy as feared, there has been a considerable loss of property, cattle and crops in several districts of the State. Numerous houses collapsed in the city of Baroda and villages.

Relief camps have been opened, and Government are advancing loans for houses and seeds.

Speaking at a public meeting at Baroda to organize relief, the Maharaja Kumar Dhairysil Rao, son of the Maharaja of Baroda, announced that the Maharaja (Gaekwar) had cabled, instructing that all possible help should be given to the afflicted people. The Maharani also cabled her grief at hearing of the disaster.

The Maharaja Kumar stressed the necessity for co-operation between Government and the public to overcome the present disaster.

He mentioned, as an example of self-sacrifice and devotion, the case of a prisoner who had saved the lives of others at considerable risk to his own, and added that the prisoner's sentence had been remitted.

Official reports from Gujarat do not anticipate heavy loss of life, but acute distress prevails in many parts, and there has been a considerable loss of cattle and damage to property.

Both steamers mentioned on July 29 are safe.

[An early message stated:—Bombay, July 29. No news has yet been received of the two Indian coastal steamers which left Bombay on July 23 and 24 respectively, but they may have taken refuge in coastal ports, with which communication is at present impossible.]

Rs. 200,000 Subscribed.

Bombay, Aug. 3.

A meeting for the relief of Gujarat flood distress, presided over by the Governor, was most encouraging.

Over Rs. 200,000 were subscribed on the spot.

A gesture of the international fellowship was contained in a message received from the Japanese community, undertaking to contribute to the relief fund.

Viceroy's Itinerary Altered.

Simla, Aug. 3. The Viceroy has cancelled his visits to Waitari, Puri and Ranchi owing to the breaches in the Bengal-Nagpur railway, due to the recent heavy floods.

His Excellency has telegraphed the Governor of Behar expressing disappointment at his inability to visit the flood-affected areas and the hope that strenuous efforts would be continued for the amelioration of the distress by affording permanent relief to the poor.

AERIAL GUESTS.

NOVEL GARDEN PARTY AT FAKENHAM.

London, July 24. The guests at a novel garden party held at Fakenham, Norfolk, literally "dropped in." The hostess, the Marchioness of Townshend, invited her guests to come in their own aeroplanes. A large party responded, including the Master of Semilly, Lady Abe Bailey, Lord Ossulston, and Mr. Bert Hinckler.

Mr. Hinckler spent the afternoon at the light aeroplane races and displays.

ALFONSO'S SON.

REPORTS OF SERIOUS ILLNESS.

Madrid, July 28.

Even under the best dictatorship there are problems that the strongest hand cannot solve, especially under a monarchical regime. This is what is happening to Spain at present.

Leaving aside the political questions although closely connected with the succession to the throne, the fact—although not admitted officially yet—of the serious illness of King Alfonso's eldest son, Prince of Asturias, is now the dominating factor in Spanish affairs.

It is almost a tragedy that is threatening the royal family with the direct heir suffering from acute haemophilia and in such condition that in the middle of June the doctors decided he must leave Madrid and remain for a while in a higher climate, where the air of the mountains would do him good.

The King, Queen and the rest of the family would have liked to go along with the twenty-year-old lad who was taken to one of the royal estates, at La Granja ten miles from Segovia and about 80 miles from Madrid. But first, their official position obliged them to be in the capital most of the time, also the necessity of concealing the Prince's illness forced the King who is deeply affected, to leave Madrid in secret frequently—dashing out in automobile to La Granja, to spend a few hours at night, by his son's side. Only when it was impossible to do otherwise, the royal Palace at Madrid published a note saying the King had made a trip to La Granja.

There, for a young Prince, the stay must be morally dreadful. La Granja is a huge estate which includes a Palace and parks, the latter resembling somewhat the Versailles, in France. Unfortunately, the Palace has been partly destroyed by fire, and not repaired since, there the right wing alone can be inhabited, and this is where the crown prince had to put up. This would be bad enough but for financial reasons the park is far from being well taken care of, and La Granja being a village of not more than some 3,000 inhabitants, the whole place has a desolate aspect which strikes any new comer.

The Prince's condition grew worse in May when he found it more and more difficult to walk; he appeared no longer in official ceremonies, until he weakened to such extent that there was no other alternative except transporting him to La Granja.—United Press.

ROSE SHOW.

FINE EXHIBITS IN SPITE OF BAD SEASON.

Cheltenham, July 6.

The joint show of the Cheltenham Floral Fete and National Rose Society at Cheltenham attracted entries from all over England. A most gratifying feature was the development of the amateur classes, which showed an improvement of 80 per cent. on previous numbers. The total value of cups and prizes distributed was in the region of £1,000.

In spite of the wet season, described as the worst since 1914, there was a wonderful show of roses. Good judges expressed the opinion that gardeners are realising that the rose is an English flower that has got to be cultivated in the open under English climatic conditions. A hard race of flowers is thus being produced.

There were also excellent trade exhibits consisting of groups of carnations, delphiniums, hydrangeas, sweet peas, and herbaceous flowers.

For the third year in succession the cup for the best exhibit in the show, given by the Cheltenham Corporation, was won by James Cypher and Sons, of Cheltenham, who have now won the cup outright.

CHOLERA IN PERSIA.

VACCINE ORDERED BY AIR MAIL.

Teheran, Aug. 4.

Precautionary measures are being taken by the Government against the spread of cholera in Persia. Doctors, with medical equipment, are being despatched to the various frontiers, and quarantines shortly will be established at Kasri Shirin, on the Perso-Iraq frontier. Travelling to Iraq is prohibited.

A large quantity of anti-cholera vaccine has been ordered from Paris by air mail.

The War Office has placed an aeroplane at the disposal of the Health Department to transport medical requisites.

CROWNED BARD.

HOLYHEAD EISTEDDFOD INCIDENT.

London, Aug. 4.

Elfed, the Arch Druid, has issued a statement denying that Mr. Caradoc Pritchard wrote to him, as stated in the cable of August 3, or that Mr. Pritchard was requested to wear a robe for the crowning ceremony.

He adds that the Gorsedd will, at all costs, adhere to its rules, once they have been adopted. Like any other respectable body conferring degrees, the Gorsedd will confer them in its own way, and will not be swayed by any puerile tirade.—"Times of Ceylon."

[The cable mentioned stated:—London August 2.—A 22-year-old journalist Mr. Caradoc Pritchard, of Bthada, was declared and crowned Bard at this year's Eisteddfod being held at Holyhead, for a collection of poems dealing with life in Snowdonia. Mr. Pritchard is the youngest competitor who has ever won the crown. The Editor and Chief Sub-Editor of the "Welsh" weekly on which he works won this honour in 1924 and 1925, respectively. Prior to being crowned, Mr. Pritchard sent a protest to Elfed, the Arch Druid, protesting, in unpoetical language, against the absurdity of the robe proposed to be used for this ceremony. He said that he had objection to members of the Gorsedd making silly asses of themselves, but he would rather be uncrowned than make himself and his brother bards a laughing-stock. It was high time that Welshmen realised that a bard of flesh and blood was like every other mortal. Mr. Pritchard's protest was successful.]

BROADCASTING.

CALCUTTA STATION TO BE OPENED.

Calcutta, Aug. 3. Arrangements have been completed for the inauguration of the Calcutta station of the Indian Broadcasting Company by the Governor of Bengal, at 6.30 p.m., on August 26.

The first item to be broadcast will be the National Anthem, played by the North Staffordshire Regiment Band as His Excellency enters the station.

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.

The Shanghai Capitalists and Labourers Arbitration Committee held its inaugural meeting in the offices of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce.

The Shanghai British Automobile Association draws attention to complaints which are being received as to the excessive use of loud horns in town areas, particularly at night.

The "Straits Echo" is in a position authoritatively to announce that an entirely new General Hospital, to cost probably several millions of dollars, will be erected in the near future in Penang.

Since the abolition of the dog tax the number of many and uncurbed for pariahs has multiplied considerably, and unsuspecting people are never safe from attacks from rabid dogs, says the "Times of Ceylon."

Leave to file a specification of an invention for a new method of attachment of soles and heels to the uppers of boots and shoes made of leather and other skins without any stitching or sewing has been given to Mr. Tan Kah Kee of Singapore.

Among the through passengers on the Darvel, says the "B.N.E. Herald," was one of the most enormous pythons we have been privileged to see. It must have measured a good deal over 20 feet in length and its waist measurement, enhanced by a recent meal of Plandok or other meat, was also of no mean order. It was caught we understand, in Sandakan and sold for $100 and will be put on exhibition in Singapore.

The London motor-cyclists set off from Central London on a journey round the world. They were Mr. S. T. Glanville and Flight-Serjt. Sparker. The side-cars of their motor-cycles will be used as beds. The journey of about 15,000 miles will be via Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, Constantinople, the Syrian Desert, Basra, Bombay, the Straits Settlements, and Australia, returning across the United States. They expect to complete the tour in 120 days.

The British Air Ministry has completed its secret tests regarding the "Flying Battleship," a huge flying-boat with three Rolls Royce Condor engines of 2,400 horsepower. It will be christened "Valkyrie." It has a wooden hull of immense strength, specially treated to prevent the absorption of water. It is intended for a reconnaissance crew of five for whom hammocks have been provided, enabling them to be several days over the sea.

"The Shanghai People's Association to Uphold Customs Tariff Autonomy" held its second meeting in the office of the Customs Chinese Staff Association on Min Kuo Road, Nantao at which it was resolved that a series of mass meetings would be held on the afternoon of August 20 in Nantao and Chapel as well as one "in the centre of the International Settlement," which probably means in the premises occupied by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce.

A Nationalist soldier who tried to enter the Shanghai International Settlement with 250 rounds of rifle ammunition concealed in two billycans inside a blanket, and was arrested by a Chinese constable on patrol at the North Thibet Road Bridge, was remanded for trial before the Higher Court at the Provisional Court. He pleaded that he had been given the bundle by a fellow soldier when he came on leave from Nanking and did not know that the bullets were inside.

At Lukawei Cemetery a number of officers and men of the Shanghai Municipal Police participated in a simple ceremony consisting of the laying of a tombstone at the head of the grave of the late Russian constable, Klukin, who died from bullet wounds received while endeavouring to apprehend a gang of armed desperadoes on Carter Road in June last. The tombstone which bore a replica of a cross of the Russian Orthodox Church, contained the following inscription: "To the warrior who fell abroad defending the name and honour of 'Russian'."

The Edinburgh Town Council, by 30 votes to 22, adopted a proposal to confer the Freedom of the City on Sir Harry Lauder, who was born in the City. There was bitter opposition to the proposal, chiefly from the Labour councillors, one of whom said that Sir Harry Lauder "presented the English-speaking world with a type of Scotsman not found in Heaven, above the earth, or beneath the waters under the earth—a type who, if he came in their midst, would be sent to an asylum." Another described Sir Harry Lauder as "a Tory propagandist who denounced trade unions."

The second annual conference of the Malayan Teachers' Association was opened by Mr. A. J. Sturrock, the District Officer, Kinta, at the Town Hall, Ipoh. There was a record attendance of teachers from all parts of Malaya, including Singapore and members of the general public as that the large Town Hall was full to the doors. Mr. P. E. Navaradnam, President of the Association, was in the chair. Mr. Sturrock declared the Conference open with a speech "touching on some aspects of education," after which Dr. Rabindranath Tagore, the poet-philosopher, delivered the inaugural address. Dr. Tagore spoke for about 45 minutes on the subject of education with special reference to his own institution at Shantiniketan. At the close of Dr. Tagore's speech, Mr. Navaradnam delivered his Presidential Address.

BETTING STORIES.

"BOOKIES" OPERATING AT STAMFORD BRIDGE.

SEVERE RULES.

"Betting strictly prohibited." And very rightly so at athletic meetings. But every habitue of the old-time Stamford Bridge, even those who never had a bet in their lives, will know what is meant by "the bookies' stand."

Until it was pulled down to extend the long straight course to a full 300 yards it stood, back to the railway, a few yards past the winning post.

It was literally a stand—there was no vestige of a seat—and the only embellishments were printed notices announcing that betting was taboo.

Consequently it was here that half a dozen gentlemen regularly took their stand, on the lower-most tier, ready and willing to lay a slight shade of odds, very slight ones as a rule, against anyone finding the winner. The gambling was very mild.

The clients were mostly top-hatted city gentlemen of an athletic turn, and the usual stake was half-a-crown. The attempt to invest any larger amount invariably froze the market. One of the odds-layers was an old-time champion cyclist.

The Pantaloons-Stakes. Another, invariably addressed as "George," was rather a Beau Brummell of a bookmaker. On the sunny side of Bond Street he would have passed any afternoon for one of the "upper ten."

In all weathers he could be found at his usual place on the bookies' stand, always faultlessly attired in silk hat, well-cut frock coat, the latest in striped trousers, and a gardenia in his button-hole. Business was conducted in an undertone. Failure to observe that unwritten rule meant prompt ejection. But "George" was particularly suave.

At one very big meeting, (writes Fred W. Parker), I was strolling past the stand to see that all was well just as the competitors filed out for the veterans' race. At least half of the runners were programmed as septuagenarians, and they certainly looked it. Critically surveying the aged athletes, "George" remarked in his courtliest tones; "Gentlemen, I am now prepared to do a little business on the Pantaloons Stakes!"

An aftermath of the Lillie Bridge riot caused me a lot of trouble and a certain amount of anxiety. For a long time after that event the police authorities absolutely refused to supply a police force for even the smallest athletic meeting unless at least one inspector, two sergeants, and forty constables were engaged.

This was an instance of the locking of the stable door. The various clubs holding sports at Stamford Bridge naturally declined to incur the great expense. Up to that time four or five constables had been considered quite sufficient in most cases.

The suggestion that I should advise the local officer from my knowledge of the class of meeting and the likely attendance was negative. All or none, was the reply.

After a long "confab" the club committee found a solution of the problem by leaving it to me to "do the best I could without the police." Delightfully simple, was it not?

The knowledge that police protection was withdrawn offered a lure to undesirable that was irresistible.

However, difficulties are to be overcome, and I solved them by engaging a few pensioned policemen and securing a racecourse "special" or two on big occasion to see that known crooks were turned back at the gates.

Open betting had to be stopped. I told "George" to pass the word along that the first man to shout the odds openly would go out quick.

CORRESPONDENCE.

INDIAN STORES AND CRICKET.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.") Sir,—With the closing of the Indian silk stores on Sundays it is gratifying to see that they have already taken up cricket on the only day when the staffs are free. Although beaten by only four runs last Sunday in their first match the Indian merchants' team played very well considering the number of "colts" that turned out. It is to be hoped that such matches will be arranged every Sunday morning—weather permitting—and that the enthusiasm will be such that it will be counted an honour to be selected to play. As a game cricket has few if any equals and there is no reason why the staffs of the Indian silk stores should not in time be able to hold their own with any cricket team in the Colony.

Yours, etc.,

LEKHRAJ A. MAHTANI.

To-day.

2.30 p.m. Dragons v. Recrelo.

4.30 p.m. Japanese v. Hong Kong.

To-morrow.

4 p.m. Tigers v. Filipinos.

The line up of the Filipino Club against the Tigers to-morrow, will be as follows:—

Zafra, c.; Angeles, p.; T. Leonard 1.b.; Cruz, 2.b.; Cureem, s.s.; Tescen, 3.b.; Rull, 1.f.; Bautista, c.f.; D. Leonard, r.f.; Substitutes, Fernandez and Delgado.

CRICKETERS OF 70 YEARS AND OVER.

A party of gallant old men in Bishop Wilton, near Pocklington, Yorkshire, recently issued a challenge to a cricket match to any team whose members' combined ages should total 850 years. Counting in a reserve and an umpire, the Bishop Wilton total is 995 years.

The challenge reached the hill-side village of Sheepbridge, near Huddersfield, where it was discovered that there were 15 men whose ages ranged from 83 to 70. The Rev. Canon Whorlow wrote to the Bishop Wilton secretary, who in reply stipulated that the first match should be at Bishop Wilton. He added, as a concession, the permission for Sheepbridge to substitute younger men, but the younger men must be at least 70.

A subscription has been opened to raise the cost of a conveyance to Bishop Wilton—about 50 miles away.

had paid out the last of his winning clients, and then said: "Yes, you can take him to the gates now."

If I did not know the nationality of the waiting special I could have guessed it when I heard him address his captive with, "Now, come along av me, my boy, and I'll show ye the intricate out!"

Many will remember Percy Calder, the old Polytechnic sprinter, who was very little below championship form. A big, raw-boned lad, rather ungainly in action on the path, but a bit useful with the boxing gloves.

A "Welsher" Who Wasn't.

He had a little adventure at the old Kensal Rise running ground. Bredin was taking part in a three-quarter mile race, a distance beyond his tether, but Calder rashly backed him to the extent of a whole sovereign with a stranger.

Bredin held a good lead in the last lap when the stranger essayed a bolt. A vain hope! In a dozen strides Percy overtook him, promptly brought him to the ground, and coolly took his seat on the prostrate body of the man with his money.

"Bredin winning?" shouted Percy to a friend perched on a cogn of vantage. "Still leading, but tiring fast; Wilkins will beat him," came the reply. "Thank heaven!" mumbled the wriggling victim. "Keep still!" said Calder, taking a firmer seat; then to his friend: "Tell me when the numbers go up."

A moment or two later and: "Yes, Wilkins first, Bredin second," came the signal. And only then did Calder lift his 18st from the recumbent "pencil," who shuffled painfully off declaring his intention of drinking Wilkins' jelly good faith.

POLO TEST IN U.S.

BRITISH TEAM SUPERIOR THROUGHOUT.

DESPITE HANDICAPS.

New York, July 30. After three postponements due to inclement weather, the British polo team have played the second Test match, winning by 8 goals to 2.

In spite of the far softer turf than they are accustomed to in India and the effects of a long rest, the Britons were superior throughout.

Second Test.

The main body of the British polo team played their second test match at Westchester Country Club to-day, and will play the third on July 31.

Hitherto they have had little practice on the firm, fast turf under American conditions.

ATHLETICS.

ENGLAND WINS AT STAMFORD BRIDGE.

LOWE DEFEATS CHAMPION.

London, July 30. In the International Athletics contest, England beat France by 9 events to 4 and 66 points to 45.

The Olympic runner, Lowe, cleverly won the 800 metres by a foot from the French Champion, Martin, in 1 min. 54 1-5 secs.

The West Indian, Jack London, of the Polytechnic, won the 100 metres in 10 7-10 secs.

Mourlon (France) was leading at the three-quarter distance. He Willie Riola, the Finnish distance star, running under the colors of the Finnish-American A. C. who set a new record in the 5 mile run, at the National A. A. U. track-and-field meet in the University of Nebraska stadium, covering the distance in 30:43 2-5. He elapsed 47 3-5 seconds off the old record.

spurred, collapsed, and was carried on a stretcher from the course. Lord Burghley, was beaten into second place in the 110 metres hurdles, the winner being Gaby, whose time was 14 9-10 secs.

The Olympic athlete, Butler, won the 200 metres in 21 9-16 sec. and the Cantab, Rinkel, won the 400 metres by four feet from the Parisian champion, Feger, in 50 1-5 secs.

France won the high-jump at 6 feet 1 inch, the long-jump at 23 feet 2 1-2 inches, and the weight-putting and 5,000 metres.

BIG CHESS CONGRESS.

CZECHO-SLOVAK GIRL WINS.

London.—A formidable battle of brains has been proceeding for two weeks at Westminster, in the International Chess Congress, to which 16 European and South American countries sent powerful teams.

The tourney resulted as follows:—Hungary 40 points.

Denmark 38 1/2.

Great Britain 36 1/2.

Holland was fourth with 35.

A feature was the sideline in the form of a women's tournament for the new Women's Championship of the World. It was won by 21-year-old Vera Menchik, a Czechoslovakian resident of England, who scored 10 1/2 points, out of a possible 11.

SUPER-GOLFER.

HOW JONES WON THE BRITISH TITLE.

RECORD BEATEN BY 6 STROKES.

Mr. Robert Tyre Jones, of Atlanta, Georgia, has won the British Open Golf Championship for the second year in succession, a feat accomplished by no other amateur in the long history of the event, which was instituted in 1860. Moreover, he has secured it with a record aggregate of 285, his rounds consisting of 68, 72, 73, and 72, three under an average of 4 1/4 for the 72 holes.

The previous best winning total was 291 by James Braid at Prestwick nineteen years ago, and by Jones himself at St. Anne's last season.

Jones has established himself definitely, if indeed the evidence were needed, as the greatest amateur player that the game has ever known, and worthy in every way to rank with those accepted masters of the two preceding generations—Young Tom Morris and Harry Vardon. It was only at the eleventh hour that he decided to come over and defend his British title this year.

A Wondrous Visit.

At the age of 25, married, and the father of two children, he is beginning life afresh as a student for two years at a college in Georgia, so as to follow in his father's footsteps as an attorney.

He resolved to make this visit his annual holiday. He is going to Carnoustie in order to play on the course which produced the veteran Scottish professional, Stewart Maiden, whose style Jones says he copied from the time that he started at the age of five to swing a club.

Jones has a sentimental regard for a course which he has never been to but which he feels helped in the evolution of his own golf. He has promised to play in a charity match on behalf of the Prince of Wales' Hospital, London, on the Royal Automobile Club's course at Epsom.

Thus it will be a short visit, but a visit of wondrous triumph.

Jones has been open champion of the United States twice and open champion of Britain twice, which equals the performance of Walter Hagen.

For sheer artistry and accuracy he is unquestionably the superior of Hagen.

He sets himself so high a standard that people are astonished when he hits a shot off the line and begin to say that he is "not playing up to form." If he has two slightly crooked shots in a round, moreover, that is how he personally looks at it.

In putting Jones sets himself a standard of taking 32 putts in a round—that is to say, he allows himself the usual two putts on each of fourteen greens and only one putt on each of the other four, relying on a combination of approaching and holing out to secure the economy at the four.

He lives up to his ideal with remarkable success, but he did not do it in his third round for he needed 35 putts. In the circumstances, therefore, his score of 73 was excellent.

Hopes that the 20-years-old British youths, B. Hodson, of Newport, Mon., and T. H. Cotton, of Langley Park, Kent, who had risen so gallantly to the occasion in the first two rounds, would save the situation for Great Britain were quickly dispelled.

Hodson, starting two strokes behind Jones, took 81, which meant that he was now 10 behind the American.

Hodson slipped strokes here and there under the strain, his outward half being 39, but it was not until he came to the thirteenth hole that he definitely passed out of the reckoning as a possible winner. There he hooked a brassie shot completely across the course, took two to recover from the gorse, and had a 61. Another 6 at the fourteenth was piling on the agony.

Cotton broke down in his putting, a department of the game which he had practised for an hour every day since last July, and thought he had made secure. His round was 77, which left him nine strokes behind Jones.

Indeed, it was Fred Robson who at this stage offered the only serious challenge to Jones. Robson, now almost a veteran but full of fight, said before he went out that the course looked easy, and he proceeded to make it so.

With a round of 69 he lifted himself to within four strokes of Jones and was virtually the only one within striking distance of the leader.

An enormous crowd followed Jones in his last round, which, with frequent stoppages for the purpose of pressing back the multitude, occupied over three hours. He began to feel the strain at the second and third holes, where he pulled shots into bunkers, and at the fifth. Each of these holes cost him 5, but he pulled himself together by a perfectly played

New York, Yesterday. Following their refusal to suspend Uzcudun, who was disqualified for punching Delaney below the belt the New York Boxing Commission has suspended indefinitely Pete Reilly, Delaney's manager with the entire "stable" of fighters. The suspension affects Delaney, Andre Routsis the French featherweight, Sammy Vogel the Harlem lightweight, Johnny Brasilia the flyweight and several lesser lights. The official reason given is that Reilly failed to appear before them to explain why Delaney had not fulfilled his contract to fight Jack Sharkey as originally scheduled last September but postponed on account of an injury to Delaney.—Reuter's American Service.

A WEEK'S PAPERS IN ONE.

The event in the China news this week is the resignation of Chiang Kai-shek, who has retired to Ningpo after bringing his staff from Nanking to Shanghai. At the present moment political affairs, so far as the Southern forces are concerned, are in a state of chaos. It appears that what is left of the Hankow regime is attempting to gather together the reins at Nanking and form a united Nationalist party. The full story of Chiang's eclipse appears in this week's "Overland Mail," together with descriptions of the fighting between his troops and the Northerners, in which the former were badly defeated.

Matters of interest in Hong Kong and China generally, including an interesting local murder trial and important statements regarding the customs surtaxes which the Nanking Government was to bring into effect on September 1, all appears in the "Overland."

MOTURING SECTION

SIMPLE TROUBLES.

SOME OBVIOUS REMEDIES.

Many of the stoppages which occur on the road are due to some quite small trouble which can be remedied in a few minutes by someone who "knows how." Indeed, so reliable is the modern car that serious trouble on the road is almost an unknown thing, and the experienced motorist may, what ever lies before him, be sure of running to schedule time even on a long journey (says the "Motor.")

It is the novice, however, who may waste hours and a great loss of time and temper on the roadside simply because he or she does not know exactly what is wrong. It is humiliating, to say the least of it, when, after the unhappy owner has laboured on his engine for two or three hours, an expert comes along and cures the trouble in a minute or two at the most.

We will deal first of all with causes of complete stoppage when the car is running along the road, for if the engine begins to run badly the chances are that the novice will prefer to carry on until a garage is reached, where someone with more knowledge than he possesses can deal with the problem.

Assuming the car to have been normal and that it suddenly comes to a standstill after a certain amount of sputtering in the carburettor or banging in the alternator the first trouble to be suspected should be with the fuel system. A good deal of unnecessary work could be saved if it is first made certain whether there is any petrol in the tank. If there is a reasonable amount of fuel available the next move should be to ascertain whether it is reaching the carburettor, which can be done by attempting to flood the instrument mentioned by pulling up the jet needle or depressing the flooding plunger provided.

Unless petrol either gushes through the vent hole in the float chamber lid, or flows rapidly from the carburettor, the petrol pipe should be detached, where it joins the carburettor, and it should be seen whether petrol flows freely with the tap turned on. If it does not it is more than likely that the trouble is due to some blockage in the pipe, which should then be removed at its other end and blown through, if necessary calling into service the tyre pump. If, however, petrol is reaching the carburettor in ample quantities, a choked jet may be suspected. If the car was running at a normal touring speed at the time the stoppage occurred, the chances are that the main jet was blocked.

The novice should obtain from the makers of his car or carburettor an instruction book which will tell him what is the method of removing the jets on the type fitted to his engine. On some, as on the Zenith, a small plug beneath the bottom of the instrument is unscrewed, after which, with the jet provided, the jet can be removed. The other plug at the bottom allows of access to the compensating jet. On the Solex carburettor the body of the carburettor comes away after slackening off the big nut on the top of the float chamber lid, when the jets can be removed with a small spanner.

The chances are that it will be found that one of the jets is blocked with some particle of foreign matter and when this is removed and the jets are replaced, the engine should start and continue to run. It should be remembered that the petrol, which has been turned off while the carburettor is being attended to, should be turned on again before trying to start the engine. An unlikely trouble, when it is known that the fuel is reaching the carburettor properly, is that one of the carburettor controls has fallen off, so that the throttle closes and cannot be opened; but in this case it is generally found that the engine will continue to run on the slow-running adjustment.

A possible cause of shortage may be an obstructed filter. If the petrol strainer is near the tank and happens to be choked, it is evident that sufficient petrol will not reach the carburettor, but where the strainer is in the base of the float chamber, fuel will naturally flow from the petrol pipe, but will not enter the instrument.

On cars on which the Autovac system of petrol feed is used, a possible trouble may be due to the failure of the device mentioned to lift the fuel from the tank at the rear and pass it on to the carburettor. If none of the fuel pipes are blocked, loose unions on the suction pipe from the induction pipe to the Autovac may be suspected.

Another reason for a complete stoppage may be magneto trouble. For example, the adjustment of the platinum points in the contact breaker might have slackened off, so that the gap is so wide that the points never meet. In this case screwing the points back and locking them firmly with the lock nut so that they are separated by a space of 1-84th of an inch when open will effect a cure.

Another possible but rare occurrence is a breakage with the contact spring in which case a cure can often be effected by taking a small piece of rubber, as, for instance, a small piece of inner tube and fitting it in such a position that its natural resiliency tends to force the platinum points together. But before examining the contact breaker, however, it will generally pay to make certain that the ignition switch has not accidentally been knocked into an "off" position, and to ascertain whether the switch wire from the terminal on the contact breaker cover is rubbing against the chassis or some metal part of the body. It should be remembered that the ignition is switched off when the wire from the contact breaker is "earthed," that is, connected to any part of the frame or chassis of the car.

It will generally be found that the quickest way of discovering whether the trouble is due to ignition is to unscrew one of the sparking plugs, resting it on the cylinder block or any convenient metal part of the engine, but keeping the terminal end clear, and then pressing the starter button or turning the starting handle. If anything is wrong with the ignition system, it will not, of course be possible to get a spark at the plug point.

In the event of no spark being obtained from any of the high-tension wires, and the contact breaker being in order, it is possible that the carbon brush in the distributor may have broken or fallen out, for, no matter how pitted it may become or how dirty, the inside of the distributor may be, some sort of spark will generally be obtainable, even though it may be very intermittent and unreliable. One other carbon brush which may be at fault is that at the opposite end of the magneto, and the distributor, which presses upon the slip-rings.

If everything is, however, in apparently perfect order, and the magneto is absolutely "dead," there is the possibility that the armature may be burned out or the insulation in the condenser broken down. In either case, nothing can be done at the roadside, and the magneto will have to be removed and sent to the makers for attention. Examination of the contact breaker points will often suggest the likely cause of a complete magneto breakdown. If the platinum is blackened, burnt armatures are the most likely cause, while, should they be covered with a white chalky coating, a faulty condenser may be suspected.

Short of serious mechanical trouble, there is not likely to be any commonly experienced cause of a roadside stoppage other than carburettor and ignition. Intermittent misfiring may be due to dirty sparking plugs, which should be taken out and thoroughly cleaned, the points being subsequently corrected to 1-50th of an inch. Where, however, a block is found to have cracked the insulation or is thoroughly clogged up internally with oily carbon, it will need to be replaced.

Occasionally the use of an unsuitable plug in a high compression sports car engine may result in a breakdown of the insulation, so that the spark, instead of occurring between the points of the plug, is taking place far up inside, in which case a new plug is also needed.

Misfiring may also be due to sparking through the perished rubber insulation of high tension wires. Whether this is so can generally be detected easily by running at a fair speed in the dark, when any sparks from the high tension wires to parts of the chassis can be seen. In a distributor, of

GENERAL MOTORS.

OPENING OF NEW JAVA FACTORY.

In the presence of a large gathering of interested people the new factory of General Motors, Java, was opened at Tanjong Pagar. Those who visited the new plant included the Governor-General of East, Middle and West Java; Admirals and Adjutants of the Services; Chiefs of the Departments of Agriculture and Finance; the American Consul; Directors of the Netherlands Discount Company and International Credit-En-Handela Vereeniging Rotterdam; and the Chief Customs Officer.

A brilliant and liberal reception was accorded the visitors, who were received in one of the Company's godowns which had been turned into a veritable flower garden.

In a speech welcoming the visitors, the Managing Director (Mr. Davison) pointed out that the construction of the plants marked a new era in the industrial life of Java. He explained the various operations of the Company and thanked those who had co-operated.

Mr. Howard (Export Manager) explained the method and purpose of the Company's work in Java and emphasised that Americans themselves considered their Netherlands Indian Settlement as a Dutch Company wherein large capital was invested. The foremost principle of General Motors regarding imported materials was "Quality."

The Deputy Mayor of Batavia (Melnheer van Nieuwenhovenelbach) pointed out the great significance for the Netherlands Indies, especially Batavia, and wished the Company every success.

The Chief of the Department of Agriculture, in the name of the Government, emphasised that the settlement was not only of local significance but of the utmost importance to the entire Netherlands Indies and hoped that the future would be "as successful as the start has been to-day." He then, to the accompaniment of roaring factory sirens and bands playing Dutch and American Anthems, officially declared the factory open, after which the visitors were conducted on a complete tour of inspection.

RACING PAYS.

Although the motor-cycle Tourist Trophy Races, held on June 18, 19 and 17, in the Isle of Man, are generally considered to be speed tests pure and simple, it must not be forgotten that the lessons learnt from them have a very direct bearing on the design of the modern touring machine. As a contributor to "Motor Cycling" points out, the T.T. Races have given us the highly efficient motorcycle as we know it to-day, and it will give us, year by year in the future, even better machines.

The high speeds which are now commonplace in the island demand efficient brakes, strong frames, which tend to mitigate skidding, and a hundred and one other details, all of which help to make the machine of to-day a completely safe and roadworthy vehicle.

which the segments are joined by a contact of carbon, dust may cause misfiring, in which case the distributor should be cleaned with a rag dipped in petrol. Improper adjustment of contact breaker points may also cause misfiring.

Intermittent misfiring may, of course, also be due to a floating obstruction of the jet in the carburettor, or to water in the float chamber, which occasionally finds its way in globules into the jet. Spitting and other unusual sounds from the engine may be due to valves sticking up or to a broken valve spring. Occasionally valves made of poor material may warp and need truing up. Misfiring, coupled with a mechanical tapping sound, may be due to the valve tappet having slackened off too much, or misfiring without any accompanying noise may be due to the tappet clearance being insufficient, so that the valve never properly shuts.

The few hints given here should enable the average novice to extricate himself or herself from any minor roadside troubles. A little experience, with misadventures of the type mentioned will soon enable a driver to spot at once the most likely cause of any trouble.

At the recent A.C.U. conducted silencer test, different makes of silencers manufactured, patented and sold on the open market in Britain, were tried out in competition, on a popular make of British motor cycle. For this purpose a 1927 B.S.A. 2 1/2 h.p. was selected and each silencer was fitted in turn to the machine and judged according to the name given out. On the termination of the competition the judges commented upon the fact that the standard B.S.A. silencers compared more than favourably with any of the other silencers tried out on the machine.

THIRD PRINCIPLE.

CONFUSING POSITION IN CHINA.

Writing before Chiang Kai-shek resigned, the "Peking and Tientsin Times" stated in an editorial:—

The Wu-Han "Government" claims that it has now purged itself of its Communist elements, and that it has done so, not in response to the demands of General Feng Yu-hsiang, or the threats of Chiang Kai-shek, but in "continuation of the policy laid down by Dr. Sun Yat-sen, who was willing to admit communists into the party, but who always maintained that they were not to dominate the Kuomintang." This is the explanation of Sun Fo, the son of the author of the San Min principles. His widow, Mrs. Sun Yat-sen, however, appears to take a different view, for no sooner was the purging process started than she removed to the security of a foreign concession at Shanghai, and denounced the Wu-Han "government" for departing from her late husband's "principles." It is all very confusing, but this is only natural when an attempt is made to organise a "government" on political quackery. Dr. Sun Yat-sen never had any experience of administration, except as a revolutionary firebrand, who, while pretending to advocate democracy, and to uphold the will of the people, ordered the ruthless repression of any class or group which did not share his fantastic views. It seems possible to-day for any Chinese to profess approval of the political charlatanism expounded by the late Dr. Sun, whether he be a militarist, a bandit, a communist, or a richa coolie. And unfortunately there is no infallible authority upon their interpretation. No one can believe in the sincerity of a group, such as the Wu-Han "government" which at one moment is completely under communist domination, and denouncing all anti-communists as "reactionaries," and the next is proclaiming that the communists have been expelled in conformity with the principles of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, and that "the move to rid the Government of them is a sincere one in every respect, and they cannot come back." Thus spoke General Tang Shen-chi to a recent interviewer at Hankow, after explaining at great length why a reconciliation with "an enemy of the Nationalist Government" such as Chiang Kai-shek was impossible, and why he intended to fight him.

Incidentally General Tang Shen-chi voiced his confidence in the loyalty of General Feng Yu-hsiang. "I am sure," he added, "that he will continue to support the Revolutionary cause, and have ample reason to know that my belief on this point is correct." This reads strangely after his statement to the same interviewer that the Wu-Han "Government" would ignore General Feng's invitation to a conference at Kaifeng to effect a compromise with the Nanking "government," as Feng had "no right whatever to send such a telegram or to call such a conference."

General Tang Shen-chi regards General Feng as the faithful friend and ally of the Wu-Han Government which, according to his own statements has just performed a complete political somersault, and discovered that the principles of Dr. Sun Yat-sen require the final elimination of the communists. General Feng's own representative at Nanking, however, has announced his chief's intention "to fight against Wu-Han to the last soldier." He then proceeds naively to explain why it has been necessary for the most Christian General to disavow his affection for the Nanking "government." He is manoeuvring for a "dominating position." While doing so it would be foolish for him to disclose the fact that he and the Wu-Han "government" are not friends and brothers. When he has acquired that "dominating position" we shall see—what we shall see! Poor dear Feng is so sentimental these days. Hsu Chien, one of the worst of the Wu-Han extremists has wept on his neck and confessed his sorrow over the manner in which he has allowed himself to be used by the Hankow communists. And so the "kind-hearted Feng Yu-hsiang" has taken pity upon him, and treated him as an "old comrade." One wonders what will happen when Comrade Borodin and General Feng meet. If only the wily Jacob can show himself sufficiently tearfully regretful, and bamboozle his kind-hearted host into believing that he too has been the victim of the wicked and unscrupulous communists at Hankow, perhaps he will also become an object of pity and comradeship, and alight on his feet at Chengchow, instead of proceeding homeward by motor-car across the Mongolian desert.

At the present moment Chiang Kai-shek is waging war against the Wu-Han "government" on the ground that it is dominated by communists, and the Wu-Han "government" is seeking to suppress him on the ground that he is "a military dictator and traitor." At the same time it claims that the communistic elements have been finally expelled, and that General Feng will support it. General Feng has associated himself with Nanking in demanding the expulsion of the alien and communist elements from Hankow, but will not fulfil his promise to fight against Wu-Han until he has manoeuvred himself into a "dominating position." He is daily expecting a visit from Comrade Borodin, who is ostensibly en route for Moscow, but who may, by producing Feng's Moscow receipts, on by "tearful regrets" secure comradely treatment. Every militarist faction in China of any consequence has now voiced its hostility to communism, and most of them profess to be fulfilling "the principles of Dr. Sun Yat-sen." Never were the latter more popular. Even the unfortunate subordinates of Marshal Wu Pei-fu, who have recently been captured, are stated to have been kindly treated, and given the San Min principles to study. Will they, we wonder, be allowed to choose whether to ally themselves with Chiang Kai-shek, Tang Shen-chi, Ho Chien, Feng Yu-hsiang, or Yen Hsi-shan, when the prescribed course of study is completed. All of these noble warriors are staunch champions of the San Min principles, and yet no-one can safely predict who will be fighting whom, to-morrow, to vindicate them. Mrs. Sun Yat-sen seems to have shown the greatest wisdom. Retirement from politics, and residence in a Foreign Concession under foreign police protection, certainly seem the safest course these days. For if the venerated Doctor's widow and son cannot agree upon the interpretation of the three principles it is hardly surprising that no-one else can. And the French Concession at Shanghai obviously offers greater security to an "anti-imperialist" than the City or any of the Concessions at Hankow. It seems a great pity that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle cannot be sent for to obtain an authentic pronouncement upon "Taungli's policy." The third principle, which Mrs. Sun declares to be at stake at the present time, concerns itself with the "livelihood of the people." All of China's factions—North and South, and East and West—seem to agree in interpreting it, in practice, to mean the destruction of every industry on which they can get their clutches. It appears to be merely a matter of degree, and opportunity—the extent to which this policy of destroying the livelihood of the people is carried. It has been carried to the greatest extremes in the Wu-Han cities. Now it is being applied on a large scale to Shanghai. And even Tientsin is being experimented upon.

CALL OF THE OPEN.

REFLECTIONS OF AN OLD SOLDIER.

"Under the greenwood tree he-he, Who loves to lie with me-he-he, And toon . . ."

It was at this juncture that the Old Soldier, ceasing from his labour in knocking down a loosened heel-peg at the latter end of a horse, lobbed a mallet at the songster. Profanely replacing music (charitably so described) testified to accuracy of aim.

"That's what they mean when they talk about the 'Call of the Open,' I suppose," remarked the Old Soldier. A bandolier over his shoulder denoted the fact that he was no line-guard over the quietly chewing lines of troop horses. The cares of duty, however, sat lightly on his broad shoulders. The contentment of fine weather was upon horses and men alike. Few of the human members of the unit, indeed, were visible at all.

Seating himself on a sack of oats, with another open one before him, the Old Soldier commenced, leisurely, to fill the feed-bags against the evening feed, keeping a wary eye on his charges the while.

"Funny thing—camp life," he murmured. "It's the sun, I suppose, and the smell of the hay on the lines; and the wood-smoke driftin' up from the hole in the ground where the cooks wrestle with the ration beef. Affects different people different ways, y'know. Some cut big sticks out of trees and spend their time carvin' their names on 'em. Some stop shavin'—and get spun up accordin'—Some (indicating his recent target) starts a-singing like bloomin' linnetts."

The Old Soldier paused in his soliloquy to anathematise—very completely and systematically—a horse that was attempting to make a meal off the sleek carcass of its neighbour.

"Fresh-Air Merchants," he went on, "it gets the civvies down even worse, this 'back to the open spaces' business. There's some as take to writing bits o' poetry, wearing short trousers and eating nuts. Some get out as far as Hampstead Heath, and change hats with one another. I don't know, though, as that's entirely the effect of the open air. There's Jack Straw's Castle and the Bull and Bush. There's no accounting, I'm all for being under a roof of sorts myself. Most of these fresh air merchants must have comfortable homes. Nine little semi-detached villas and things, with French names and blue curtains.

"Then there's these music hall wallahs—them that sing songs about 'Gimme the open road' or 'We ply on the emerald sea, tra-la.' It's easy enough to sing that sort o' stuff when you know jolly well there's a hot radiator an' a bottle o' stout in the dressing-room."

"It's a different sort o' tune when you're sitting on a wet bank holding on to a fidgety 'orse waiting for the blinking dawn—all because an 'enemy force' has crossed the river South of the A in Aldershot." And the enemy is well out of it cause he's generally 'maginary. View-point they call it, don't they?

"'Uman nature's devilish awkward, speaking general. Now look at the War. There must be bin any amount of open air 'thrusts' listed then—boy scouts; and people that sleep on the tennis court in the summer. Yet no sooner did they get turned loose in a field and told to make 'emselves at home, than they dived for cover right away—moaned when they found it. They'd dig holes in banks; rig up tampoos out of oat sacks; sleep with the cows—anything rather than lay out in Gawde's fresh air. I knew one bloke that said he'd heard of a case once where a soldier went mad thro' sleeping with the moon on his face. All this blue vault of Heaven business didn't seem to work out in practice."

The Old Soldier made a sudden dive into the lines and disengaged a charger that had wound a hay net in artistic but unorthodox fashion about its forelegs.

Spit and Polish.

"Fact o' the matter is, no one ever knows when he's well off. That's 'uman, that is. Now take rifling—cleaning things up. You'd think from the way chaps talk, all the polish the Army ever did was brought on by the Sergeant-Majors. If soldiers were left to themselves you'd expect to find 'em growing beards, and holding their swords under the tap purpose to let 'em rust."

"But it don't work out—not by a long chalk. We had our chance in the War. I don't remember being ordered to clean so much as a darn button, not till we started ourselves. Some 'mobs even went so far as to paint their cap badges khaki; but it wasn't so long before chaps was getting little bits o' sand and stuff to clean the paint off. And o' course the more we cleaned the more we cribbed, that being the tradition of the Army."

"We had a bit of a song about it too—'It's a long war but a posh one.' Now all sorts of people won the War—we've been trying to find out ever since. I shouldn't be surprised, though, if spit and polish didn't have a goodish bit to do with it. Erase spit and polish as the signalers—would say and put, in self respect and that's just about why we kept our tails up."

"Now a bloke what can sit quiet in a front-line trench polishing up a razor-case—like I saw our C.O.'s servant doing once—is a likely sort of chap to help win a war. It's my belief that if they'd let old Jerry stick to his pre-war 'elmet, with its nice big brass plate on the front, and issued him out with Cherry Blossom for them big boots of his, we'd have had a lot more trouble with him than we did."

The Old Soldier hauled a battered watch from the depths of a trouser pocket and consulted its glassless dial. Plunging in at the entry of a tent, he seized a protruding human heel and dragged. Precisely as the Squadron Orderly Corporal appeared the Old Soldier produced his Relief—a wake but acid. From the same pocket that garaged his watch he unearthed a "knife, table" and a "fork, soldier's," and headed for the mess tent. The open air treatment called for its auxiliary diet.—Ex.

MRS. SUN.

SHELTERS IN FRENCHTOWN IN SHANGHAI.

The Wu-Han "government" claims that it has now purged itself of its communist elements, and that it has done so, not in response to the demands of Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, or the threats of Chiang Kai-shek, but in "continuation of the policy laid down by Dr. Sun Yat-sen, who was willing to admit communists into the party, but who always maintained that they were not to dominate the Kuomintang." This is the explanation of Sun Fo, the son of the author of the San Min principles. His widow, Mrs. Sun Yat-sen, however, appears to take a different view, for no sooner was the purging process started than she removed to the security of a foreign concession at Shanghai, and denounced the Wu-Han "government" for departing from her late husband's "principles."

It is all very confusing, but this is only natural when an attempt is made to organise a "government" on political quackery. Dr. Sun Yat-sen never had any experience of administration, except as a revolutionary firebrand, who, while pretending to advocate democracy, and to uphold the will of the people, ordered the ruthless repression of any class or group which did not share his fantastic views. It seems possible to-day for any Chinese to profess approval of the political charlatanism expounded by the late Dr. Sun, whether he be a militarist, a bandit, a communist, or a richa coolie. And unfortunately there is no infallible authority upon their interpretation. No one can believe in the sincerity of a group, such as the Wu-Han "government" which at one moment is completely under communist domination, and denouncing all anti-communists as "reactionaries," and the next is proclaiming that the communists have been expelled in conformity with the principles of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, and that "the move to rid the Government of them is a sincere one in every respect, and they cannot come back."

Thus spoke General Tang Shen-chi to a recent interviewer at Hankow, after explaining at great length why a reconciliation with "an enemy of the Nationalist Government" such as Chiang Kai-shek was impossible, and why he intended to fight him.

Mrs. Sun Yat-sen seems to have shown the greatest wisdom. Retirement from politics, and residence in a Foreign Concession under foreign police protection, certainly seem the safest course these days. For if the venerated Doctor's widow and son cannot agree upon the interpretation of the three principles it is hardly surprising that no-one else can. And the French Concession at Shanghai obviously offers greater security to an "anti-imperialist" than the City or any of the Concessions at Hankow. It seems a great pity that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle cannot be sent for to obtain an authentic pronouncement upon the "Taungli's policy."

The third principle, which Mrs. Sun declares to be at stake at the present time, concerns itself with the "livelihood of the people." All of China's factions—North and South, and East and West—seem to agree in interpreting it, in practice, to mean the destruction of every industry on which they can get their clutches. It appears to be merely a matter of degree, and opportunity—the extent to which this policy of destroying the livelihood of the people is carried. It has been carried to the greatest extremes in the Wu-Han cities. Now it is being applied on a large scale to Shanghai. And even Tientsin is being experimented upon.—P. and T. Times.

CITY GARBAGE.

ELABORATE VENTURE FOR BANGKOK.

A petition outlining a plan for the operation of a garbage incinerator and for the collection of city refuse was submitted to the Minister of Interior in Bangkok on August 1, says the "Bangkok Daily Mail."

According to the details of the scheme which were outlined by Nai Hong Navanugraha, waste would be handled according to rules set down by the Health Department in the event of acceptance by the Ministry. A Siamese company with a capital stock of Tcs. 400,000 would be formed.

Nai Hong Navanugraha is connected with the On Weng Company who are operating under the direction of the Department of Municipal Affairs. He has made a concentrated study of the operation of garbage incinerators in Singapore and Penang and the method of refuse collection used in those cities and he is of the firm belief that what has been done successfully in the F.M.S. can be done here. Waste material here, he pointed out, is of the same nature as that in Singapore and Penang.

Use Small Tubs. He proposes to place 200 to 250 covered rubbish tubs each with a capacity of one cubic metre throughout the city. These will be arranged in such a way that collection lorries, which his company will buy, will lift the tubs by machinery into the trucks, clean them and replace them, thus doing away with the present method of raking and shovelling.

Motor lorries will be used for collection on thoroughfares and in narrow lanes hand carts will be used which will transport the garbage thus collected to the motor cars.

A suitable place will be found for the erection of a garbage depot and incinerator such as is used in the F.M.S. The incinerator will have a burning capacity of 200 to 250 cubic metres per 24 hours. For rubbish too wet to burn immediately a shed will be built along sanitary lines where the garbage will be dried before incineration.

Everything will be done, Nai Hong said, to satisfy the authorities regarding strict sanitation and all their suggestions will be followed out to the letter.

Charge Tcs. 10,000. Those submitting the petition propose a charge of Tcs. 10,000 per month to cover the cost of buying, trucks, tubs, land, incinerator and other equipment and salaries.

Should the amount of garbage increase, Nai Hong said, that Tcs. 2,000 would be charged for every 50 cubic metre over the stated amount covered by Tcs. 10,000.

As security and insurance that the details of the petition will be carried out Tcs. 5,000 will be deposited. A concession of 15 years is sought.

Nai Hong explained that work will begin immediately upon acceptance of the petition. Details would have to be worked out with the Department, equipment would have to be bought and the incinerator built. It would take six to eight months before the plan would be in operation.

THE WAY THE WORLD WAGS.

Kicked by a Horse.

During a mounted display by the Royal Artillery at the annual flower show and carnival at Bexley Heath, Kent, a soldier was kicked by a horse and had to be taken to hospital.

Stated to be the leader of a band of criminals, Harry Isaac Spencer, aged 35, formerly a constable in the Metropolitan Police Force, was sentenced at the Old Bailey to twelve months' hard labour for receiving stolen property.

The children of Rome bewail the loss of their favourite elephant, Pluto. Transported from Sumatra, Pluto was the children's favourite. Pluto fell ill and on July 15 a whole pallful of cognac was administered, followed by 20 eggs beaten up in cognac, but all of no avail.

The conference of the Greater London branch of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution and representatives of the Ladies' Lifeboat Guilds at Westminster City Hall, have decided to recommend the social Tuesday before Easter for next year's Lifeboat Day collection.

Champion Sculler.

Joe Wright, jun., Canada's champion sculler, returned home from Liverpool on July 11 in the White Star liner "Doric." It will be recalled that he lost the race for the Diamond Sculls at Henley by the very narrow margin of 2ft. He was accompanied by his father, the famous rowing coach, winner of twelve world championships, and the best known figure in Canadian sport.

Canal Tragedy Echo.

For the funeral of Miss Olive Gordon Turner, the 18-years-old victim of the Birmingham canal tragedy, the garden in front of her home was filled with wreaths, and many more were placed in an adjoining garden.

Alleged to have been seen giving money away, Reginald Stephen Robinson, aged 17, of Bingley, Yorks, at Blackpool, was ordered to be handed over to the Bingley Police, the Chief Constable stated that a charge of false pretences was to be made.

"I gave some of the property to a man who has been terrifying me for years," said Lily Morcom, aged 27, a waitress, who was remanded at Marylebone on a charge of stealing from a boarding house in Queensborough Terrace, Bayswater, W., where she had been employed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cory, of Seaview, Penarth, celebrated their golden wedding on July 10, having been married at Roath Wesleyan Church, Cardiff, in 1877. Mrs. Cory was Miss Anna Willis, daughter of George Willis, one of Cardiff's first shipowners, and Mr. Cory is a member of the firm of John Cory and Sons, of Cardiff, shipowners.

A monthly service from Antwerp to Beira, via the Suez Canal, has been inaugurated by the Compagnie Americaine de Navigation, a Belgian line. There are five ships in the fleet and they average 8,000 tons. The line is a member of the South and East African conference and will touch at Kilindini, Mombasa, Dar-es-Salaam, Beira, and Port Elizabeth.

Karachi Trade.

The chairman of the Karachi Chamber of Commerce, at the annual general meeting of the chamber, stated that of the exports from Karachi for the year ended March, 1927, less than half were carried by British ships, and he called the attention of British shipowners to this fact.

On June 1 American shipyards were building or under contract to build for private shipowners 221 steel vessels of 192,346 gross tons, compared with 221 steel vessels at 206,337 gross tons on May 1, according to the Bureau of Navigation, Department of Commerce. There were 49 wooden vessels of 42,673 gross tons building or under contract to build for private shipowners during the same period, compared with 55 wooden vessels of 28,923 gross tons on May 1.

Amazon Cruise.

The Booth liner "Hildebrand" sailed from the Mersey on July 12 for Portugal, Madeira, and North Brazil on the 1,000 miles up the Amazon cruise. Among those travelling by the liner were nine members of the Oxford and Cambridge Travel Club, who are the first organized party from the universities to make the Amazon cruise during their long vacation. It is hoped that the club will make it an annual feature. Mr. J. Mansell, manager of the Para tramways, who is also returning home in the Hildebrand after a holiday tour in this country, usually places special facilities at the disposal of Booth Line tourists on their arrival at Para. Mr. E. Garland, the Booth Line agent at Oporto, is also returning home in the liner.

SOVIET OUTBURST.

Vocal Resentment At Conference.

LACK OF TACT.

Delegation Signs Internationale In Union.

Stockholm, Yesterday. The International Co-operative Congress has rejected the Russian proposals favouring co-operation with the Amsterdam international and embodying plans for a future policy of international co-operative alliance. The Russians at the closing session staged an unexpected demonstration of protest against the opposition to their proposals. At the moment the great organ in the conference hall began to peal out the final march, the Russian delegation rose and sang the "Internationale" in unison.

All the newspapers comment on the incident as showing a "deplorable lack of tact."—Reuter.

ATTEMPT TO DISTURB FRENCH COLONIES.

PLOT REVEALED.

Paris, Yesterday. "Le Matin" publishes several letters, forming correspondence between Volkoff, Russian Military Attaché in Paris, and Krestinski, the Soviet Ambassador in Berlin, and Comrade Gallaher in London, showing the co-operation between the Soviet Government and the leaders of the Third International in order to disorganize the French Colonial Empire and cause revolt among the Moroccan tribes.

WORD "NATIVE."

OBJECTION IN HOUSE OF COMMONS.

London, July 28. In the House of Commons, Brig-Gen. J. Charteris (Conservative) asked whether any further information was available regarding the alleged assault on a native in Spencer's Hotel, Madras.

Mr. G. Lansbury (Labour) asked whether it was in order to describe a fellow subject in India as a "native."

The Speaker said that he was not aware that any exception would be taken to the description, but if Mr. Lansbury submitted a point of order he would look into it.

Earl Winterton replied to Brig-Gen. Charteris in the negative, and added that unofficial information had reached him, upon which he preferred not to comment until it had been verified by the Government of India, if verification were possible at such a late date.

His information tended entirely to contradict Mr. Tom Shaw's statement. (Ministerial cheers).

When Mr. Lansbury again referred to the use of the word "native," Earl Winterton said that, to the best of his belief, there was an official order in India that no civil or Crown servants should refer to an inhabitant of India as a native. (Labour cheers).

The Speaker said that in that case he was convinced that all members would be glad to follow what had been established in India, but he would look into the matter.

Brig-Gen. Charteris said that he intended no reflection. One calls oneself with pride a native of Scotland.

AIR RACE.

GROSVENOR CHALLENGE CUP.

London, Aug. 1. Mrs. Elliot-Lynn, piloting a D.H. "Moth," started off the principal race of the day at the Hockliffe Flying Meeting at Nottingham, easily winning the Grosvenor Challenge Cup, over a course of 17 miles, with the Master of Sempill second. There were six competitors. Mrs. Lynn also beat Lady Aba Bailey in the women's pilots' race of 8½ miles, by a length. "Times of Ceylon."

DISCUSSION ON WORKING PROBLEMS.

PRICES AND OUTPUT.

London, Yesterday. It is announced that a Manchester round table conference has been arranged between representatives of the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners associations and the Cotton Yarn Association to try and promote unity of action on the Association's policy of maximum prices and reduced output.—Reuter.

AUSTRALIAN DEFENCE.

REDUCTION IN ARMY AND NAVY ESTIMATES.

Melbourne, Yesterday. The Minister of Defence has decided to reduce the Navy estimates by £125,000 and the Army estimates by £48,000 for the sake of economy. A further £27,000 will be saved in the estimates of the Air Force, civil aviation and the munitions supply branch.—Reuter.

LORD TERRINGTON.

QUIET WEDDING AT BOULOGNE.

Boulogne, July 29. Lord Terrington was permitted by the British authorities to leave the hospital, to which he subsequently returned after marrying at the British Consulate, Mrs. de Vere-Humphrey, who accompanied him from the Riviera to Boulogne, and has been in devoted attendance on him at the hospital.

The marriage ceremony was a very quiet one. "Times of Ceylon."

Earlier Boulogne messages stated: March 18.—Lord Terrington has been detained on the arrival of the boat express from Paris. He was boarding the boat for Folkestone when he was stopped. Lord Terrington asked for a doctor, who ordered his immediate removal to the hospital. A policeman is remaining there at his bedside.

March 20.—The head doctor of the hospital, where Lord Terrington lies ill, has recommended the postponement of the preliminary examination until Monday, and declared that any sudden shock might be fatal in the present condition of the patient. Later, Lord Terrington moved to the Law Courts, where it is understood that he protested against his arrest. The public Prosecutor refused a request that he should be allowed to leave the hospital and go to a hotel, and also declined to remove the policeman on guard, but undertook to instruct the latter not to make a noise or smoke. March 19.—The Police Commissioner states that he was informed by telegram on March 17 by the Sureté Generale, Paris, that the British authorities had applied for the arrest of Lord Terrington on a new extradition warrant. Lord Terrington will be detained in hospital until he is fit for removal to prison, pending the completion of the extradition formalities.

Leave to file a specification of an invention for improvements in or relating to buckets and bucket elevators, and dredges, has been granted to Mr. F. H. Cothay, mining engineer, and Ropp Tin Ltd., Singapore.

In view of the contemplated imposition of the new 12½ per cent. ad valorem tax on yarns produced by local cotton mills from September 1, Shanghai Chinese cotton mill owners have requested the government to reduce the rate to 7½ per cent. according to a report in the Chinese newspapers. But the petition has not been replied to. The British owners will not recognize the new rate, and are quite prepared to close down their mills in the event of the new tax being enforced.

HOME CRICKET.

Rain Stops County Games.

KENT'S BIG WIN.

Taunton Match Yields Three Centuries.

London, Yesterday. Kent at Taunton defeated Somerset by 319 runs. The visitors scored 345 (Hardinge 154, Ashdown 112) and 243 for two wickets (Bryan 128, Hardinge 82 not out). Somerset made 214 and 55, Wright taking six wickets for 29 runs.

The following games were not decided and do not count in the championship table, there being no play on the second and third days:—

Middlesex v. Worcester at Lords. Middlesex made 178 and Worcester 26 for two.

Gloucester v. Essex at Leyton. Gloucester scored 199. Essex scored 75 for five.

Warwick v. Surrey at Birmingham. Surrey scored 231. Warwick made 67 for two.

Leicester v. Hampshire at Ashby-de-la-Zouch. Leicester scored 184. Hants made 81 for five.

Derbyshire v. Yorkshire at Chesterfield. Derby scored 157. Yorkshire scored 92 for five.

Jupp Shines. The following match was drawn:—

Lancashire v. New Zealand at Manchester. Lancashire scored 229 (E. Tyldesley 124). New Zealand 67 for one wicket.

Notts, at Northampton, took first innings points from Northamptonshire.

Northants scored 152 and 169 for six (Jupp 88 and 62).

Notts made 281 for six declared, Jupp taking five wickets for 62.

Glamorgan took first innings points from Sussex.

Glamorgan made 207 for nine and declared, Bowley taking six wickets for 69.

Sussex scored 118.—Reuter.

MAYOR WALKER.

BIG LONDON RECEPTION TO N.Y. CHIEF.

HIS "BUGGY RIDE."

New York, Yesterday. Mayor Walker, although on holiday, rang up his secretary at the City Hall here from London and discussed housing and other important municipal matters.

The Secretary said that he heard Mr. Walker as if he had been in New York.

New York Impressed. Alongside the long accounts of the unremitting search by forty warships and seaplanes for the missing Honolulu fliers, the papers are splashing copious accounts from London correspondents of Mayor Walker's activities in England.

An immense impression has been created by the cordiality of London's welcome, and the announcement that Mr. Walker intends to ride in the Lord Mayor's coach is the sensation of the hour.

As an instance the heading across the front page of one journey reads: "Jimmy to get buggy ride in London."

PUBLIC SAFETY.

DRASTIC ACTION PROPOSED IN IRELAND.

London, July 24. Drastic penalties are laid down by the new Public Safety Bill, which the Irish Free State Government propose to introduce in the Dail Eireann.

Provision has been made declaring certain associations unlawful, and making persons convicted of membership of such associations liable to a maximum sentence of five years' penal servitude.

Persons associated with the activities of these organisations will be liable to expulsion from the Free State.

Special courts may be established to include military officers as well as judges, and there shall be no appeal from them.

The death penalty may be extended for the possession of firearms without authority, if Government so notify.
